First 'Mini-Summit' on Economy

President Urged to Take Quick Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has launched his public search for a way out of the nation's economic woes and has received assurances from the Democratic Congress that it will stay in session as long as he has proposals for it to consider.

The word from Capitol Hill came as Ford met on Thursday with some 30 economists who offered a wide range of suggestions, including an apparent majority view that the money supply should be expanded to bring interest rates down. There was less agreement on how to moderate the wage-price rate.

"There is no question but that we will cooperate with the President," House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said in a telephone interview from Cambridge.

"We have got to instill confidence in the public and if remaining in Washington will do it, then we have to stay."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., concurred, with the observation that Congress alone cannot act on the economic problem.

President Ford 'touching all bases.' Story on page 22.

At the end of the day-long, televised session, about half of which he attended in person, Ford told the economists, "I couldn't agree more that we have to act... on sound and responsible recommendations."

He made no commitments on the suggestion that the Federal Reserve Board be urged to ease its tight money policy or on any other specifics.

These included suggestions from individual economists for renewal of mandatory wage-price controls, for avoiding even the suggestion of such controls and for intermediate steps such as giving the new Council on Wage Price Stability standby rollback powers or concentrating on big industries and big unions whose policies were relatively immune from competition.

But Ford dropped a hint that he would avoid extreme measures.

"As in the political arena, there is a wide area of agreement, and a few in both parties fall on the far ends. Most of the American people fall in the middle, and they want us to take those actions, I believe, that fall within the middle ground of the spectrum."

While they differed widely on particular proposals, the economists generally agreed that the way out of what has been called stagflation — simultaneous inflation and sluggishness in the economy — would not be simple, quick or painless.

Speakers emphasized that the economic malady has no single cause but a variety, both national and international, that would have to be attacked separately.

And, Arthur M. Okun, a former presidential economic advisor now on the staff of the Brookings Institution, said his colleagues, while not agreeing on a number, generally saw inflation, now running higher than 10 per cent a year, dropping below 10 per cent next year and falling somewhat more in 1976.

The White House meeting is the first in a planned schedule of public sessions with spokesmen for various interests, in Washington and elsewhere in the country. These are to culminate in a summit conference Sept. 27 and 28 in Washington to formulate specific recommendations.

Although Senate Democrats have pledged to help President Ford fight inflation, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today he was disappointed the meeting failed to deal with "the ripoff we've been getting in some of the basic industries."

Jobless Rate Still Rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate in August continued its slow upward climb, rising by one-tenth of a per cent to 5.4 per cent of the work force, the government reported today.

Although the change from the July rate of 5.3 per cent is not considered statistically significant, the Labor Department said the increase taken over the past two months represented a break from the 5.2 per cent plateau that had prevailed during the first half of the year.

The jobless rate now has risen by eight-tenths of a percentage point from last October's 4.6-year low of 4.6 per cent and is expected to continue climbing as the economy falters.

The Labor Department said

4.9 million Americans were unable to find work last month, an increase of about 190,000 since July.

The Ford administration has prepared a program of gradually rising payments to local governments to create additional public service jobs as unemployment mounts. If the jobless rate reaches 5.5 per cent, Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan has said the government would move to create about 100,000 more jobs.

Total employment as measured by the department's sample survey of households stood at 86.2 million in August, practically unchanged in the last two months. Nonfarm payroll employment as measured by the survey of business establishments was unchanged in August at 77.2 million.

Looking at wages, average hourly earnings were reported up three cents in August, to $4.24, a level 33 cents more than a year ago. Weekly earnings averaged $157.73 in August, an increase of $1.12 from July and $11.10 from last August.

However, the Hourly Earnings Index in dollars of constant purchasing power declined three per cent over the past year, the government said.

The length of the average work week and factory overtime were essentially unchanged last month, both reflections of the sluggish economy.

Meanwhile, unless checked, inflation will add more than $9.1 billion to the price American consumers pay for medical care over the next two years, says Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

Weinberger said on Thursday that skyrocketing medical costs are increasing 50 per cent faster than prices in the rest of the economy and are fueling inflation.

In a speech before the American Association of Medical Clinics, he urged the health care industry to cool down its inflationary spiral or face the prospect of an outraged public demanding federal intervention.

He said that if voluntary cooperation fails, "the American people are in real trouble on the health care front."

Rising health care costs now threaten to add another billion dollars to the federal budget, doubling the estimate for this increase that he delivered to Congress this spring, he said.

IT SOUNDED LIKE A GOOD IDEA—Unidentified truck driver ponders his predicament in this harvest scene off Johnson Hill Road in Hurley. It seems the tractor-trailer truck was at a nearby farm to pickup a shipment of corn. The loading went just fine: the truck didn't, refusing to start. Someone suggested "jump-starting" (it), pulling the truck. A farm tractor was enlisted but as made perfectly clear by the photo, was unequal to the task. Later, another tractor-trailer was called in to nudge the truck forward so the first tractor could be unchained. Jumper cables were eventually employed to get the tractor-trailer running. There were no injuries except perhaps the tractor driver's pride. (Steve Cline Photo)

City Irked by County Move on Arterial

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON City officials had hoped for an unqualified approval of the Kingston North-South Arterial by the County Planning Board when it met Wednesday night.

At the very least the city expected the county would leave it to "local (city) determination."

What the city got was a county planning board recommendation for what could be a major realignment of the road and come back to the DOT alignment at Murray Street. The city officials are none too happy about it "at this stage of the game."

The Planning Board met Wednesday night and approved Senior Planner Rick Jacob's recommendation that the route alignment can take years—and of the road through Sleighsburch be shifted to the east and the proposed bridge be built some 300 feet further down the creek than as designed by the State Department of Transportation.

Jacob says two bridges within a quarter mile of each other (the existing Rondout Creek Bridge is just up the creek) would "be ominous looking" and might detract development in Broadway East. "Also, DOT proposes to stick one of the pilings (for the new bridge) in the creek bed. We feel they should all be on shore," Jacob said.

The Jacob alignment would come back to the DOT alignment at Murray Street. The state is committed to construct the "Murray Meadow Street Connection" this year.

Even minor alignment changes can take months — major realignment can take years—and city officials, who thought the road would go into construction in the latter part of 1970, are acutely sensitive to anything that might further delay it.

Jacob allows that there may be delays. "There is the possibility of delay because of our recommendations," he said. "However, more than 50 agencies have been solicited for comments and whether we're the one (to delay the project) remains to be seen. We would defer to DOT if it would jeopardize the project."

"I think what they're referring to has been discussed," Mayor Francis R. Koenig said (he voted against the Jacob proposal Wednesday night).

I'm deeply concerned that at this stage of the game they (the planning board) would come out with something like this because all the development that has taken place and all the plans that have taken effect are designed around the present plan."

Jacob expressed the planning board's view. "Our comments were for a different alignment," he said. "We just raised a few questions. As a general concept, we've more than endorsed it. We've said it was necessary. We've said it was not negative. We've said it was a critique. It's not an objection at all. We're as concerned with getting this thing off the ground as anyone else."

City Planner Robert E. Pritchard, a member of the Planning Board (he voted against the Jacob proposal Wednesday night) said the impression when queried that the city would have been just as happy if the County Planning Board had simply ignored the whole matter. Or, better yet, approved the DOT recommendations as submitted.

"They (the state) asked for comments," Jacob said. "We had the responsibility to make comments. It wouldn't have been responsible for us as a planning board to remain silent."

It was pointed out that the planning board very often does just that; referring applications back to the municipalities for "local determination."

"I'll agree that we do that in maybe 90 per cent of the cases," Jacob said. "But anytime it affects one of the major thoroughfares in the city we make recommendations."

He then, Koenig said he hoped to make reference to planning board recommendations on Lawton's Park Apartments (off Route 32) and the proposed Grand Union on Broadway (Route 9W) as examples of recommendations made previously on development on major thoroughfares.

Jacob also responded to Koenig's "Johnny come lately" criticism. "It's true that these plans have been around four or five years," Jacob said. "We don't stick our nose in until we've been asked. We've been asked (by DOT)."

At that, the planning board's recommendations will be well after the July 26 deadline set by the state. That deadline was extended once again to accommodate those agencies that have failed to file recommendations.

The mayor's office is one of those agencies that have failed to file recommendations. He then, Koenig said he hoped to make reference to planning board recommendations on Lawton's Park Apartments (off Route 32) and the proposed Grand

3 Sought in Weapons Robbery

By MATT SPIRENG

BIG INDIAN

The second major area manhunt of the week was underway today following an armed robbery Thursday night at a Town of Shandaken sporting goods store during which three men pistol-whipped the elderly owner of the establishment and made off with a virtual arsenal of weapons.

Police roadblocks were set up in a wide area of Ulster, Delaware, Greene and Sullivan Counties, and police helicopters were brought in today in an attempt to locate the three white males who made off with more than 40 guns from the Big Indian Trading Post. Authorities said they consider the three suspects "extremely dangerous."

Hurley State Police BCI investigators said today the three men, believed to be in their middle or late 20's, entered the Big Indian Trading Post at about 7:15 p.m. Thursday, tied up the owner of the store, Romeo (Charles) Scannapieco, 68, and pistol-whipped him.

The three robbers then collected 18 rifles, 11 shotguns, 15 pistols and "a large quantity of ammunition" and fled the scene.

Authorities said the men left Scannapieco tied to a chair when they fled, but the owner was quickly able to free himself and summon police.

Robbers were almost immediately set up and maintained throughout the night, as the manhunt began, police said.

The men confronted Scannapieco, who was alone in the store at the time, and tied him to a chair, police said. He lives in a house adjacent to the Memorial Hospital. He was treated for his injuries in the emergency room there and later released.

According to investigators, the three men entered the store, located a short distance off Route 28 in Big Indian, already carrying at least two handguns.

believed to be a car and pickup truck, and fled west on Route 28. Both autos are believed to be green, investigators said or late 20's.

Today's manhunt follows close on the heels of a major 60-hour search which ended early Thursday when police captured a Pennsylvania man wanted in the beating death of a Wood-place," one investigator said.

The only description of the three thieves immediately available was that they were all white males in their middle or late 20's.

Camp Officer vs. Bankers Trust

$17.5 Million Law Suit Filed

KERHONKSON Camp Westwood, Inc., a Kerhonkson children's camp which is under investigation by the State Attorney General's office and by state police, has reportedly filed a $17.5 million damage suit in Manhattan Supreme Court against Bankers Trust Company of New York for allegedly allowing one of the officers of the camp corporation to make an unauthorized withdrawal of nearly $80,000 from the firm's account.

The suit, filed Wednesday on behalf of corporation officer William Nelson reportedly charges that the bank allowed Sheldon Haas, one of the corporation officers, to withdraw some $76,000 from the camp's account, although the signatures of two corporation officers were allegedly necessary in order to make an authorized withdrawal.

The corporation, represented by New York Attorney Roy M. Cohn, has reportedly charged that the withdrawals were made either through "gross negligence" or "connivance" on the part of bank officials.

Haas, who was arrested during August, is currently facing charges involving some $15,000 in alleged bad checks. He is currently free on $5,500 bail after pleading innocent to the charges.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt called in the New York

State Police last week to investigate the children's camp because it was reported to determine if possible fraud had been committed in the firm's has existed in connection with the camp's finances.

On Aug. 23, police were called to the camp when a disturbance arose surrounding the failure to pay counselors and other camp employees. It has been alleged that nearly $40,000 in wages is owed camp employees.

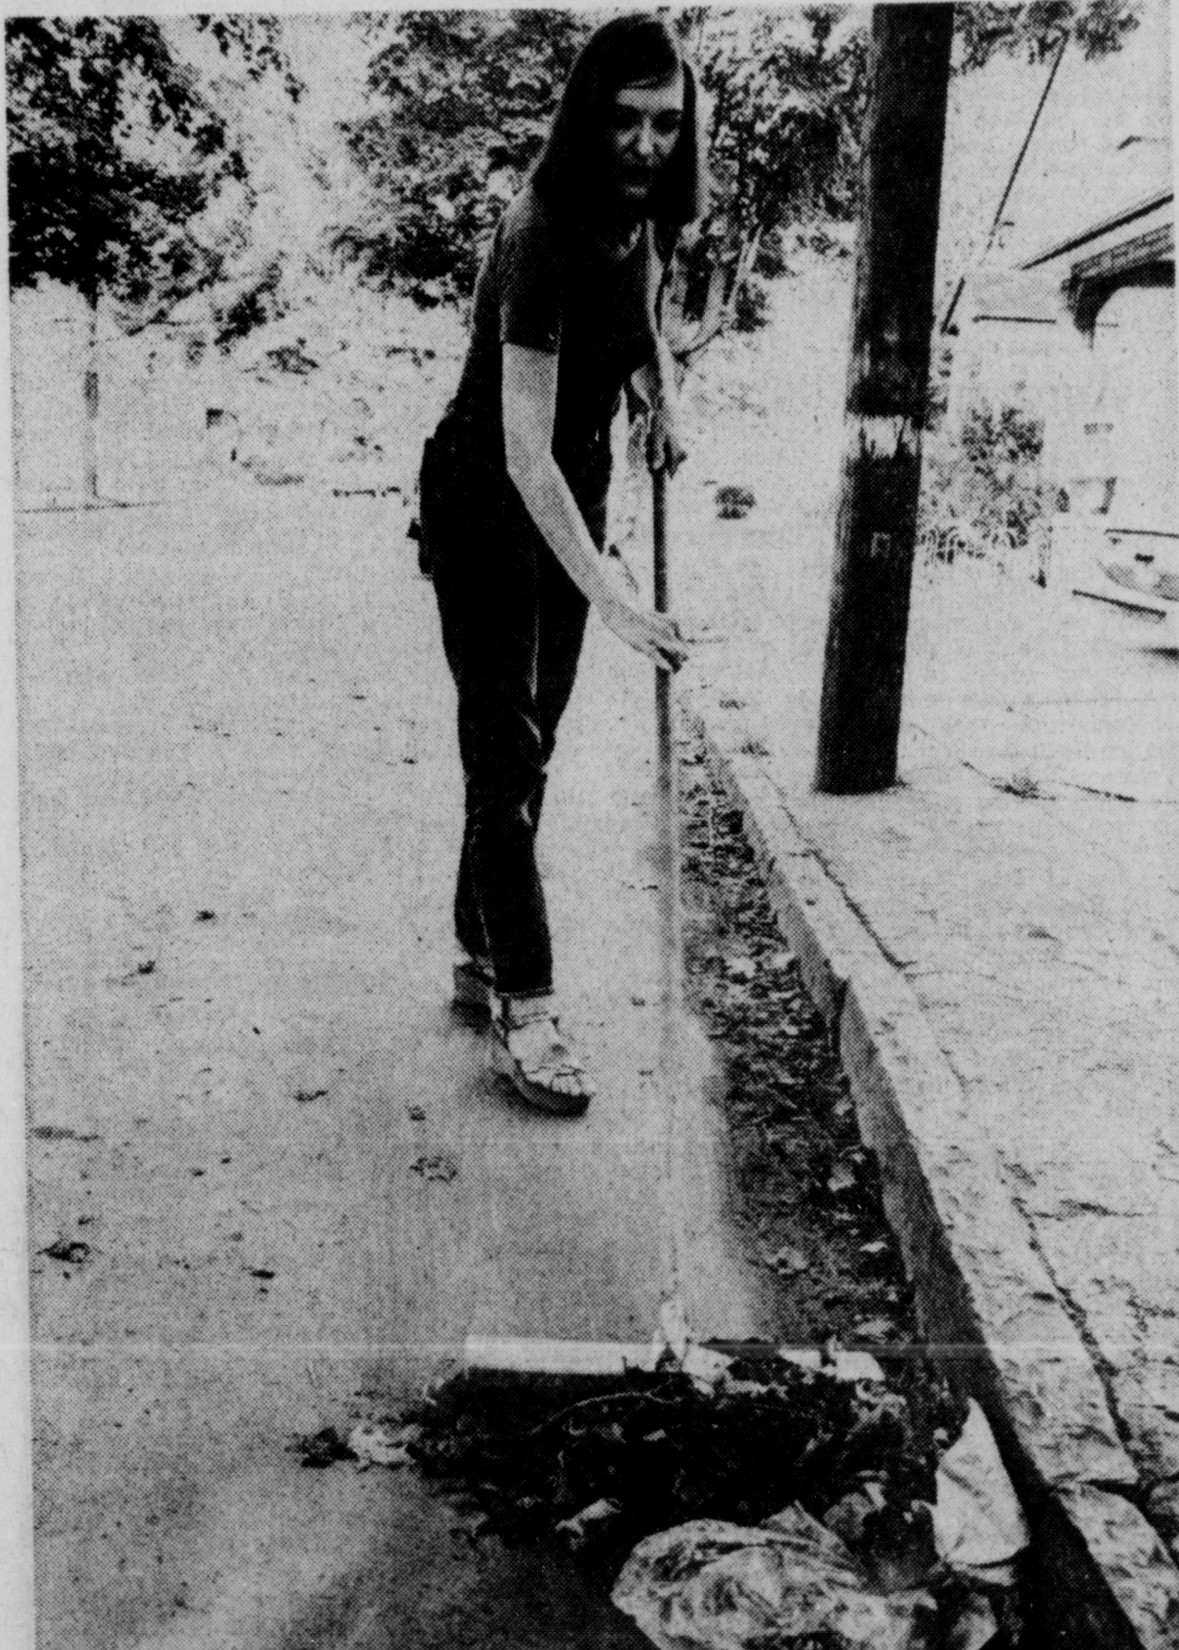

Employees have filed complaints with the State Labor Department, and the Attorney General's office announced earlier this week that it will take action to criminally prosecute the corporation and its officers.

when the payroll was slated to be paid, that there was reportedly no money in the firm's account to cover the wages of the more than 100 employees.

Papers filed in Supreme Court reportedly claim that bank officials were instructed by Haas to hold account statements for him rather than send the statements to the camp's Kerhonkson address, resulting in a delay in the uncovering of the withdrawals, reportedly made during June and July.

Haas is slated to return to Rochester Town Court next week when he is to post another $5,500 bail in addition to the $5,500 already posted on the bad

A CLEAN SWEEP—Let's face it. The summer of '74 has seen better days. With the Labor Day weekend now just a lingering memory, warm weather will soon yield to colorful foliage and frost-bitten mornings. Zoning Amendment Defeated in Rochester

TOWN OF ROCHESTER
Following a public hearing Thursday night, the Rochester Town Board defeated by a 3-2 margin a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance that would have allowed construction of school bus garages anywhere in the town, provided appropriate approval was received from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The law still allows location of the garages in areas zoned R-1, but it was the feeling of some officials that the new proposal would have represented spot zoning.

The Rochester Planning Board had expressed its approval of the zoning amendment, but the Ulster County Planning Board questioned the advisability of the proposal.

Thursday's meeting of the town board included several complaints, proposals and suggestions for zoning amendments.

Councilman Sam Waruch introduced a resolution authorizing the town board to petition the Ulster County and New York State Legislatures for passage of legislation that would broaden the tax base for school purposes. It was the opinion of Waruch and others that property taxes are an unequitable means of raising school revenues and that a system less burdensome to property owners should be devised.

Developer Casper Worley complained to the town board that he has been unable to obtain necessary permits for the construction of new homes in his development, in part because of allegations that he has not yet complied with Health Department requirements concerning the quality of his water supplies.

The town board suggested that that garbage is left strewn around the areas, trees have been chopped down and a nearby stream has been polluted. It was determined that the owner of the property never obtained a permit for the "campsite" and that an order was issued by the zoning inspector last month that campers not be allowed to use the area.

Sam Morano asked the town board for a two-year hardship extension for the correction of zoning violations at his trailer site in the township. He said that recent economic conditions make it impossible for him to complete the necessary improvements. The town board said it will take the matter under advisement.

Lance Belville complained that there are illegal camping activities taking place on property near Smitty's Bar. He said

Softball, Tennis Sites Are Needed

KINGSTON
The Kingston Recreation Commission met in regular session Thursday night, devoting a good deal of the meeting to a discussion of the need for more softball fields and tennis facilities in the city.

It's an old problem for the commission which instituted slo-pitch softball five years ago with a handful of teams. It has since grown to 69 teams with close to 1,000 participants. This year a woman's league was formed with 18 teams.

Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of recreation, says "you can make a softball field almost anywhere where you have two or three acres of level ground." Murphy says the city doesn't own two or three acres of level ground at present and that the only "real hope in the foreseeable future is the landfill at Kingston Point."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig said he was going to build ball fields at Kingston Point last year but instead the landfill was extended another year while the city seeks alternate sights to dump its rubbish.

Murphy said the commission is aware of criticism of its slo-pitch program, but answers, "We're looking for good recreation and we think we've got it with the slo-pitch league."

As for tennis, which Murphy describes as the "fastest growing sport in the city," the commission feels some changes in city rules are in order. A delegation from the commission will meet with officials from the Kingston Tennis Association to discuss rules of order at the city's various tennis courts. "We have this one hour rule (for use of the court) which isn't always observed," Murphy said. "We'll be talking about things like that, along with the need for more courts."

Murphy also reported to the Freeman on the details surrounding the death of a donkey and its offspring at the Forsyth Park Zoo last week. The donkey gave birth to the offspring which died shortly after. About a week later the mother died from what was diagnosed as internal hemorrhaging.

The Recreation Department expects to open the new gymnasium at the Rondout Neighborhood Center within the next two weeks.

Six Per Cent Hike in '73

Serious Crime Rate Goes Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI reported Thursday that major crimes in the United States rose 6 per cent in 1973 but predicted the trend would turn downward again next year.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe called it "discouraging." Saxbe said, "That goes a long way." Saxbe said potential victims were becoming more cautious.

"I think people are becoming more conscious of crime," Saxbe said. "That goes a long way."

The figures were contained in the FBI's annual "Uniform Crime Report," a compilation of seven standard types of crime reported by law enforcement agencies: murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Rape was up most sharply, at 10 per cent. Robbery increased the least, only 2 per cent.

But Saxbe was more optimistic. Although he called the war on crime "a failure of substantial dimension — harsh, bitter and dismaying" in a Chicago speech last week, he said Thursday, "The incidence of crime will decline; maybe not in 1974, but in 1975."

The report said the 4 per cent drop in 1972 was followed by a 1 per cent decrease in each of the first two quarters of 1973, leading to hopes that the upward trend had been reversed permanently.

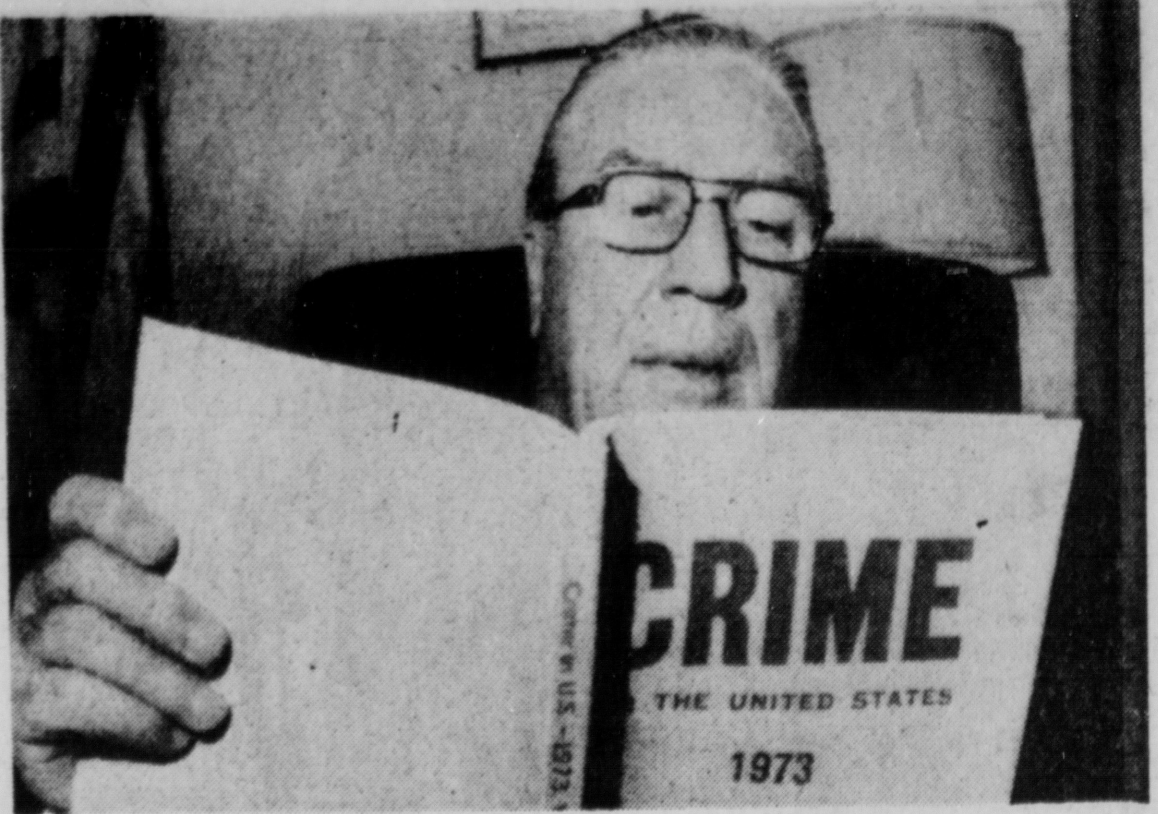

But the rate of serious crimes rose 1 per cent in the third quarter and spurred upward by 16 per cent in the last three months to show an average annual increase of 6 per cent, it said.

The accelerated rate of climb continued into 1974, an FBI spokesman said.

It was growing at a 15 per cent rate during the first quarter of this year, and while second quarter figures are not yet complete it still may be rising, he added.

The FBI made no attempt to explain some of the figures, such as the chart which showed that purse snatching had been in a steady climb to an increase of nearly 50 per cent in 1971 over 1968, but then showed a sharp, unexplained drop to about 6 per cent above 1968 for both 1972 and 1973.

The crime reporting system is not geared to show why such variations might occur, a spokesman said.

FBI REPORT — FBI Director Clarence Kelley holds a copy of the FBI report saying that serious crime in the United States increased an average of 6 per cent during 1973, reversing a 1972 decline that had created hopes of success in stopping a 17-year upward trend. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Teachers Strikes Continue

By United Press International

More than 280,000 students were enjoying extended summer vacations today as their teachers plodded the picket lines in contract disputes with school boards.

In Pennsylvania, two more strikes brought to 3,400 the number of teachers off their jobs in the state and gave extended summer vacations to some 68,000 students.

Some 135,000 students and about 3,000 teachers were idled by strikes in 18 Michigan school districts.

Delaware teachers returned to their classrooms today after staging a shutdown that forced schools to send home more than half the state's 132,000 students.

More than 300 striking North Haven, Conn., teachers Thursday were found in contempt of court by a judge who issued individual $300 fines unless they returned to work today.

Nationwide, about 10,000 teachers and about 286,000 students were idled by strikes in more than 40 towns and cities.

At least 67,000 of Delaware's 132,000 public school pupils were sent home Thursday as the members of the Delaware State Education Association staged a work stoppage.

At least 55,000 students were idled in Delaware's New Castle County alone.

The teachers had rejected the state's latest pay offer by a 3-to-1 margin and staged the walkout to prove "that we have the guts and that we can close this system if we want to, and will if we have to," a spokesman said.

In Racine, Wis., some 1,800 teachers and school custodians marched on school board offices Thursday to protest the closing of the city's schools.

The schools were ordered closed Wednesday because of a slowdown by teachers.

Oakland, Calif., teachers set up picket lines today, though schools there do not open until next week. About 3,000 teachers represented by two unions have voted to strike to press contract demands.

Schools were closed again today in Chicago's suburban Oak Park, where some 350 teachers struck Thursday as negotiations failed to produce a contract. The strike affected about 6,500 students.

Teachers in East Meadow, N.Y., continued to picket in defiance of a court order barring their walkout against the 12,300-pupil district.

In Hortonville, Wis., some "pushing and shoving" was reported in a confrontation between teachers, on strike since last March, and a citizens' group but no arrests were made.

Strikers are protesting the boards' hiring of replacements.

Miners Ignore Court Order

By United Press International

Miners, bus drivers, auto workers and teachers were off their jobs and on the picket lines today in sympathy with affected hundreds of thousands of people.

Ignoring a federal judge and their own union leaders, hundreds of miners did not go to work today in sympathy with a school textbook protest in Charleston, W. Va.

"Most of them are still out," said a spokesman for the Kanawha County Coal Operators' Association.

The United Mine Workers of America told the miners to go back to their jobs and a U.S. District Court judge issued a temporary restraining order to halt picketing at area mines, but many miners stayed home in sympathy with the book protest.

Many mines were closed for the second day Thursday.

About 100 miners at Eastover Coal Co.'s Highsplit Mine in Harlan, Ky., also were off their jobs Thursday.

The walkout started Wednesday when some miners became upset that their job assignments had been changed. They contended the switches were made because they picketed in sympathy with the 13-month strike at the nearby Brookside Mine, scene of a bitter union struggle.

Members of Local 696, United Auto Workers, struck the Delco-Moraine plant in Dayton, Ohio, in a dispute over unresolved grievances.

Local officials said the strike was called because of a lack of progress in two weeks of negotiations aimed at solving grievances over production standards at the plant.

Negotiations between striking bus drivers and the Rapid Transit District in Los Angeles were scheduled for today with a state conciliator.

More than 3,000 drivers have been on strike for 26 days. Gov. Ronald Reagan called on the United Transit Union Thursday to submit the district's latest wage offer to a membership

Newark Man's Death Under Probe

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Authorities have opened an investigation into possible police involvement in the death of a man fatally injured at the height of rioting in the Puerto Rican community earlier this week.

David Perez, 30, died in a hospital Thursday of a hemorrhage resulting from a fractured skull.

Perez was the second man to die during the violence, which began Sunday when mounted police broke up an illegal gambling game at a festival in Branch Brook Park.

The body of Fernando Rodriguez DeCordova, a factory hand, was discovered Tuesday near Thomas Street, scene of some police-rioter confrontations.

He had been shot with 12-gauge buckshot, the same size used by some officers during the disorders.

The investigation will be carried out by Essex County Prosecutor Joseph P. Lordi.

Perez was hit on the head Monday when police cleared a crowd of about 1,000 from the steps of City Hall and chased them after rocks were thrown at the building's windows.

Police Director Hubert Williams declined to link the two deaths to the riots pending Wednesday completion of the investigation.

Earlier Thursday, the Puerto Rican Congress of New Jersey homicide squad and the Bureau of Internal Affairs would look into the death.

He also announced the city's 1,400 policemen would go back to normal eight-hour shifts and keep their shotguns in the trunks of their patrol cars as calm returned to New Jersey's largest city.

The police had been working 12 hours a day since the trouble began.

The city had been plagued with looting, window-smashing and firebombing up until Wednesday.

Williams said most of the officers stationed in the area, a focal point of the disturbances, were Puerto Ricans themselves.

Williams said persons with complaints of police brutality should report them to Lordi and testify under oath.

Schovel Blames 'Crime Wave' on Courts

By TIM SCHUSTER

SAUGERTIES Town Supervisor A. Michael Schovel passed the burden of responsibility for repeated and small time crime in the Town of Saugerties to the courts Thursday night at the Town Board's regular meeting.

Citing specifically Mt. Marion Park, and an area "under the pine tree" in that community, Schovel said the latest "trouble spot" in the town, he put the blame on the judicial system. He said that "several judges" in Mt. Marion were saying, "In my opinion they have been too lax. We have 'making fools of our police department," saying that the "citizens of Mt. Marion have a legitimate gripe." One area is reportedly used for beer parties and night gatherings that the police are wary of.

Frank Hallion, police commissioner, joined Schovel in stating that Mt. Marion was coming in for an increased amount of the town department's time. He said that Malden had been a trouble spot for a while, but that Mt. Marion had taken that title.

And, he added, "The police are answering every call they get, even if it takes a while."

Town resident Charles Bryson, a resident of the area for the past "50 years or so," by his own admission, put forth a preliminary plan for the town to convert some 27 acres he owns off Zena-High Woods Road into a town park.

He proposed an Olympic swimming pool 188 feet long on the site where a two-story concrete block chicken coop has stood; placing a series of tennis courts behind it; damming up a stream for trout; and placing picnic facilities on the property.

Town attorney Richard Overbaugh said that the first hurdle that would have to be cleared before the town could consider taking title to his property would be to get a 50-foot right of way to it.

Bryson said he would attend to that through asking his neighbors for right of way to his land for this purpose, and he proposed naming the park Black Forest Park for the forest of that name in the area.

In other town business, it was announced that the Zoning Commission's second public hearing on its proposed zoning law has been postponed from Sept. 17 to Sept. 24, to begin at 8 p.m. at Saugerties High School.

Henry Dussol was reappointed chairman of the Assessment Board of Review for a second five year term.

Councilman Henry Breitenbach noted that he and the town engineer met with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. one week ago on federal aid for the Barclay Heights sewerage project, and papers had been forwarded to federal agencies for funding.

It was reported by the building inspector that "due to structural violations, the place known as Lulu's (on Glasco Beach) will not be operating board.

Brown Addresses Kiwanis

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Some educators don't feel that managerial knowledge and skills used by profit organizations can be effectively applied to colleges but, Ulster County Community College's new President, Robert T. Brown believes that they can.

Brown told members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday that although there will be distinct operational differences, much of the managerial knowledge and many of the techniques have a broad application to all organizations regardless of their character.

Referring to a Harris poll in 1972, Brown said the survey pinpointed a decline of confidence in the leadership of American institutions. In 1966, 61 per cent of the people expressed a great deal of confidence in educational leadership, Brown said adding that by 1972 this figure had dropped to 33 per cent.

"These figures emphasize our priority to assess more accurately the need for change in educational programs," he suggested.

Brown said that as one of his first tasks as president, he will clarify the goals and objectives of the institution and once they are clarified develop an evaluation system to measure successes and failures.

This will be in line with today's public demand for institutions to be accountable for their performance, he said. "A management by objectives program is one way of meeting this requirement," he said, "and it will assist in making a better institution."

Brown described how the college has grown from a small school with an enrollment of 595 full and part-time students to a medium size school of about 3,000. He predicts it will not be growing any larger. "But, we do plan to grow better," he said.

In recent years full-time enrollment has remained almost static while part-time continues to grow, he explained.

Brown also noted that in recent years, full-time enrollment has been split, 50 per cent transfer and 50 per cent go into careers. This year's class will be 40 per cent transfer and 60 per cent career.

He told of follow-up studies of students and employers who hired them in order to ascertain whether or not improvements or additions should be made to current programs.

In answer to questions from the floor, Brown disclosed that he feels the college's physical plant is adequate and there is no present need for additions.

He hopes to encourage greater faculty participation in the community and to encourage the involvement of more local studies in college spots programs.

Brown indicated that the college will remain a two-year school. He told of the successes of many of the students and the fact that most graduates who transfer to other colleges are accepted as juniors.

In introduced by UCCC Public Relations Director James Haviland, Brown told the Kiwanians he hoped they were aware that "we take the work 'community' in our title seriously. It has been stated that community colleges are a bright and rising star on the education horizon."

He said he felt that with the cooperation of everyone, "your star, Ulster County Community College, will be by far the brightest."

Wawarsing Board To Fix Problem

By WADE BURKHART

WAWARSING When the site work for the new town highway barn on Route 209 was done about two years ago, it created a serious water problem for the property across the road, and the Wawarsing Town Board seemed in agreement Thursday night to borrow the money to fix it.

Mrs. Helen Dietrich has appeared before the town board at regular intervals ever since the water problem began. Her property is directly across the road from the new highway building, and she informed the board Thursday night that the runoff from the town property had reached a point about 13 feet from her garage.

"I think this is about all I can take," she said. Addressing Supervisor Frank Sahler, she said, "Something has to be done, Mr. Supervisor."

Sahler agreed. "But, there's a question of where do we get the money," he told her.

Town Attorney Joseph Friedman said that it would be permissible to borrow the money in this case. Friedman, Sahler, Town Engineer Alex Diachishin, and the town's accountant, Joseph Galandiuk, are to get together before the town's audit meeting, Sept. 12, and decide what the best course of action is.

Diachishin estimated that the job would cost about $4,000 for materials, with town crews able to do the work. He said the state had "promised" to take care of the problem, but had reneged.

In other action, Highway Superintendent Gus Hull came before the board with a long shopping list. He did not get a new Fox spreader, costing about $4,000. Councilman Frank Greco said, "Let's make it easy, Gus. You don't have the money to buy one."

He will get three new spreader chains, at $400 a piece, to make some of the spreaders the town already has work right. He also asked, "Does anybody know where I can get eight good telephone poles," and the councilmen furnished a possible source.

He also informed the board that the bulldozer the town had just had extensive repairs done to it would not stay in gear, and the motor would have to be pulled again to get the gears worked on. By all accounts the machine has been jumping out of first gear for years, but Hull said it now refused to stay in second gear either, and was unusable. Hull was told to get estimates.

Diachishin announced that the main road into the new landfill in the hamlet of Wawarsing was "completed as of now." Sahler said after the meeting that the new landfill is scheduled to open at the end of this month, or early in October, and he believed the schedule would be met.

Diachishin said recent rains had delayed work on the site "slightly," but that it was "coming along quite well."

Joseph Demskie was not reappointed to his seat on the zoning board of appeals, with Arnold Ryan installed in his place despite a zoning board of appeals recommendation in Demskie's favor. Greco, who failed to get a second on his nomination of Demskie, said that though Ryan was his friend and a former running mate of his for councilman, Demskie was being "railroaded" because of "certain positions he has taken against the zoning ordinance we have."

Greco, the lone Republican on the board, was the only vote against Ryan, and he said substituting one Republican for another on the zoning board of appeals was an attempt to "pacify" him. This Councilman James Barthel denied.

Leona Hadley was appointed dog enumerator.

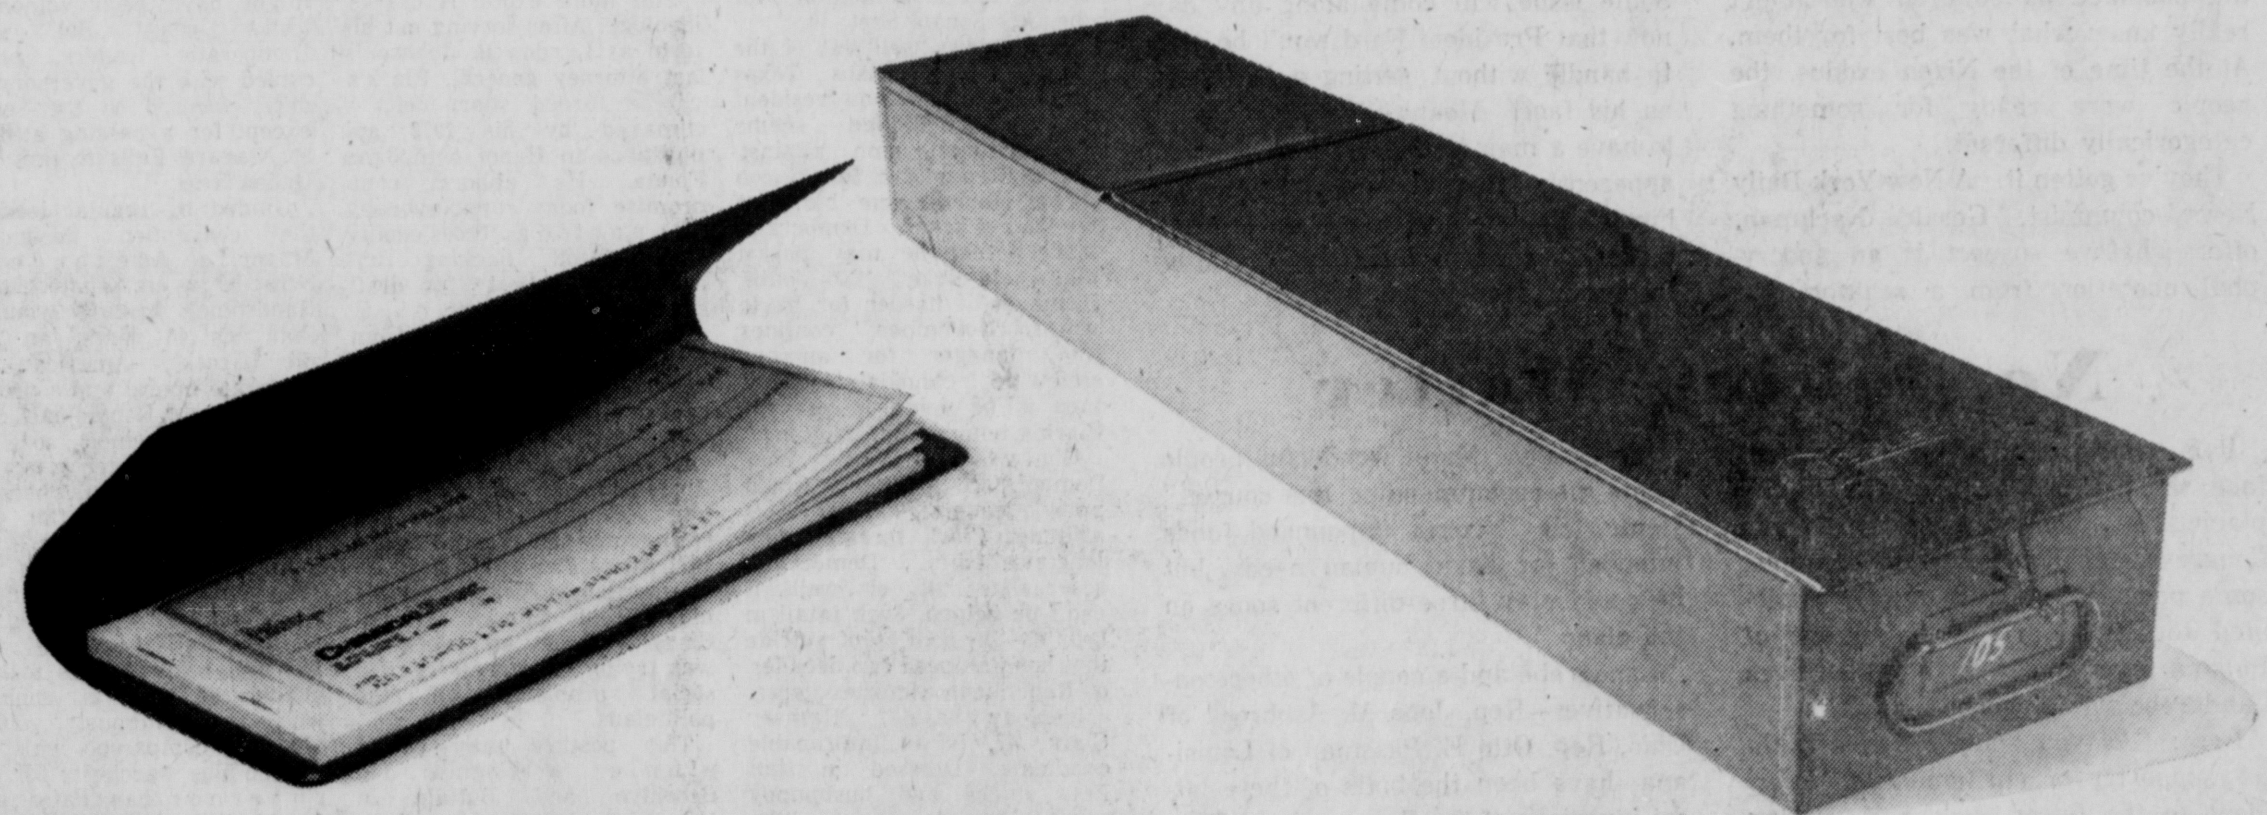

Carnival Set

A neighborhood carnival against dystrophy will be held at the Stahl home, Krumville Road, Olivebridge, Saturday, Sept. 7 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mary Ellen Stahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stahl will serve as ringmaster assisted by Brigitte Bergeton, Kathy Carey, Darlene Carle and Karin Plawsky. The carnival will feature such games as fortune telling, ring toss, beanbag toss, dart throw, auction, book sale, refreshments.

OPENING SEPT. 9

The "Yes" Bank comes to Kingston.

If you get Chemical No-Bounce Privilege Checking or a Chemical Master Charge at our new Kingston Branch, we'll say "Yes" to a free checking account and a free safe deposit box.*

Chemical Bank Hudson Valley, N.A. is pleased to announce the grand opening of a new branch in Kingston. We're so pleased, in fact, that we're giving away a free checking account and a free safe deposit box* for one year to every customer who applies for and receives Chemical No-Bounce Privilege Checking or a Chemical Master Charge card. And we'll say "yes" to both No-Bounce Checking and a ChemBank Master Charge as long as you're over eighteen, steadily employed, earn at least a hundred dollars a week and won't be in over your head.

No-Bounce Checking. Chemical's No-Bounce Privilege Checking says "yes" when your checkbook says "no." So you can write checks for more than your balance. It's even a way to write yourself a loan.

And Chemical checking accounts include "simplified statements." So your checks come back in the order you write them.

ChemBank Master Charge. It's good for a "yes" at stores, restaurants and hotels anyplace. And you can borrow cash at any Master Charge bank, anywhere in the world.

Grand Sweepstakes. While you're at our branch opening celebration, be sure to fill out an entry blank for our Grand Sweepstakes. You could win five minutes of free shopping at the Waldbaum Supermarket in the Caldor's Shopping Center and take home up to $300 worth of groceries.

So stop in at our new branch and say hello to manager John Ledwith. Our celebration extends to Thursday, October 31. We're open 9 A.M. to 3 P.M., Monday through Thursday, with our drive-in window open 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. On Fridays, our hours are 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. and 5:30 P.M. to 7 P.M., with our drive-in window open from 9 A.M. to 7 P.M. During the opening celebration only, we have special Saturday hours on September 14, 21 and 28 from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 6, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON
and
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — All but forgotten in the Watergate aftermath has been its chief victim, Sen. George McGovern, who was badly defeated after the dirtiest presidential campaign in American history.

Yet the South Dakota senator, betraying no bitterness, has written a stirring, private letter to the man who has now wound up in the White House in his place, without ever running for President.

The letter, intended for President Ford's eyes only, thanks him for his "constructive leadership" at this critical hour and declares eloquently: "No one can now fail to see what is right with America even as we strive to repair what is wrong."

Although McGovern was the Democratic presidential candidate in 1972 and will oppose Ford's election in 1976, he wrote the new President on August 30 to wish him well.

"No one who loves America has taken satisfaction from the crisis that put you in the nation's hardest job," the letter allows. "But we can draw satisfaction from the underlying strength of our constitutional structure and the rule of law. For we have demonstrated that we take those principles seriously and that they can be made to work."

"For despite the serious challenges we have to face, despite the honest differences we are bound to have, we have taken the first and greatest step toward recovery. Our confidence is returning."

Citing what is right with America, McGovern tells Ford warmly: "One thing that is right is your approach to the presidency. Above all else the country needed healing. You have understood that need and met it."

"The spirit of excessive partisanship is gone from the White House. Instead you have summoned a spirit of cooperation from Democrats and Republicans alike. Instead of 'enemies lists,' there is a list of domestic and foreign priorities we share together."

"And with the sense of common purpose you have inspired, we face them with renewed strength and resolution — as one united people once again. We can hammer out the answers on the basis of mutual respect, and with a common vision of America as a great and decent land."

McGovern goes on to praise his political adversary. "You have the opportunity and the capacity to be a great President," writes the senator. "You bring to the White House the same qualities of fundamental honesty and fairness those of us who served with you saw in Gerry Ford, our colleague in the House."

"As President Ford, you have called upon civility among politicians. That alone would be an historic achievement. Knowing you as I have, I see every chance for equal achievements in meeting the challenge of inflation and other challenges still unforeseen."

"For my part, you can be assured that I will give all the help I can to a President doing all he can to find the best course for the country."

ILLEGAL LETTER: Feisty, fiery Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J., who kept the House impeachment hearing in turmoil with his outspoken defense of ex-President Nixon, apparently hasn't learned his Watergate lesson.

It is against the law for congressmen to use federal office space to solicit or receive "any contribution of money or other thing of value for any political purpose."

Yet Sandman utilized federal premises to print a two-page letter begging friends "to send $100, $75, $50, $25, $10, $5 or whatever you can afford" for his re-election campaign.

A spokesman for Sandman concluded that the letter was printed in the congressional storage room assigned to the congressman. The spokesman stressed that the printing press belonged to Sandman personally and that the paper was purchased with campaign funds.

However, the printing was done on federal property and the paper was purchased at reduced rates through the federally run House stationery store.

FOOTNOTE: A spot check determined that other congressmen carefully keep their fund-raising activities away from Capitol Hill to avoid violating the law.

H. A. LINES AND FOOTNOTES: Atty. Gen. William Saxbe as called for a crackdown on hardened criminals who have learned how to cope with the courts and prisons to delay trials and land quick paroles. This gives them a maximum time on the streets where they terrorize law-abiding Americans. Saxbe wants the courts and parole boards to give first priority to keeping the "repeaters" off the streets.

Ironically, the Republicans gerrymandered out of his seat Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., the man whose legislation established an institute which helped develop many of the weapons to be used in Saxbe's crackdown on crime. These include cheap burglar alarms for mom-and-pop stores, tiny radio warning sets for bus drivers and nonlethal-rubber bullets and darts that police can use to stop criminals without killing them.

Cuba's Fidel Castro has been reading Peter Benchley's best-seller, "Jaws," a novel about a small New England coastal town that was terrorized by a white shark. The controversy among the town fathers over whether to close the beaches and risk losing the tourist trade pleased Castro's Marxist mind, according to sources who have talked to him.

Friends of Richard Nixon are bitter against his former White House counsel, Fred Buzhardt, who is still advising him at San Clemente. These friends say Buzhardt gave him most of the bad advice that backfired during Nixon's last days in the White House. One Nixon cabinet officer, who asked not to be identified, told us Buzhardt was a "bubblehead."

McGovern Praises Political Foe

Freeman Editorials

A Respected Jurist

Whether it was the court of law, politics or in the sports realm, Louis G. Bruhn was highly respected by all who ever came in contact with him.

Supreme Court Justice Bruhn, who died Wednesday afternoon following a long illness, was the ninth resident of Ulster County to serve on the Supreme Court bench since the Civil War. He was first appointed to that post by then New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. In 1961 he was elected to the bench for a 14-year term.

And his service on the bench, as in his various other endeavors—and there were many—was marked by distinction.

To all who knew him, whether personally or just enough to exchange a hello on the streets, Judge Bruhn was regarded as simply a "nice guy."

His public service extended from serving as Ulster County Judge, judge of the Children's Court and as District Attorney for the county. A lifelong Republican, and very active for his party until he donned judicial robes, Judge Bruhn drew praise from his political adversaries.

Judge Bruhn also made a name for himself in the field of sports. In addition to his varsity baseball days at Union College, he played with such top-notch area teams as the Kingston All Stars, Morgan's Repealers and Postmills in the old Twilight League in Kingston.

The death of Judge Bruhn also removes a close ally from other area field of sports including bowling and golf.

Euphoria on Potomac

Deep thinkers have often opined that Americans entertain a secret yen for royalty. We are told that this helps to explain why the presidency has been allowed to become so awesome—why Presidents have been encouraged to conduct themselves in office more like kings than commoners.

A fellow known to everyone but the House restaurant busboys as Jerry Ford has changed all this, at least for the time being. He is working hard at being a swell, lovable guy in the White House, and the people find it much to their taste.

This may be in part a reaction to the recent past. President Ford's immediate predecessor had carried the kingly bit further than anyone else in that high office, even referring to the populace as children who didn't really know what was best for them. At the time of the Nixon exodus, the people were ready for something categorically different.

They've gotten it. A New York Daily News columnist, Gerald Nachman, offers what we suspect is an apocryphal quotation from a senator, but apocryphal or not it sums up a view frequently heard along the Potomac, to wit: "We've never had a chief executive act so damn nice, and, quite frankly, the euphoria he's created could tear this country apart. We're just not ready for all this joy in Washington. I don't like it; the atmosphere is dangerously light-headed."

Silly, of course. Still, Nachman's tongue-in-cheek reportage does strike a faintly responsive chord. "Party regulars," he writes, "fear it could damage future Presidents if people get used to liking the man in the White House. As a result, Mr. Ford's advisors are taking him aside and asking him to do something horrible as soon as possible if he wants to retain his credibility as President."

We place our confidence in history. Some issue will come along any day now that President Ford won't be able to handle without getting a little egg on his face. Meanwhile, it's pleasant to have a man in the White House who apparently doesn't keep reminding himself that he holds down the world's biggest job and is therefore The Most Important Man in the World.

No Joking Matter

It is a little hard to keep a straight face when expressing outrage at the placing of phony statements in the Congressional Record. For example, some parts of a speech falsely attributed to Rep. Earl F. Landgrebe of Indiana must surely have tickled even Landgrebe's funnybone.

Item: "As you know I was a faithful supporter of our embattled President to the bitter, sour end, stating even that I would be shot with him if necessary. Many wonderful people wrote me recommending this course." Item: "He (Nixon), impounded funds intended for basic human needs, but he could play three different songs on the piano."

Landgrebe and a couple of other conservatives—Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, Rep. Otto E. Passman of Louisiana—have been the butts of these latest invasions of the Congressional Record. It is the liberals' turn to laugh.

Inside Report

Politics of Suicide

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — Optimism among New York Democrats that 1974 may be the year to end 16 years of suicidal defeat is tempered by this astounding fact: barring a minor political miracle, Ramsey Clark will win the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate Sept. 10.

With views well left of the New York consensus, Texas emigre Clark — now resident in Greenwich Village — seems a sacrificial lamb against liberal Republican Sen. Jacob Javits' fourth term bid. But beyond that, Democratic leaders fear he may poison the whole ticket. "No doubt, it makes it harder for us to win in November," confides the manager for another statewide candidate. What then is he doing to prevent Clark's nomination? Nothing.

Only in New York Democratic politics would party leaders assume this attitude: Clark threatens the long-awaited Democratic resurgence but, oh well, it can't be helped. Such fatalism typifies the politics of suicide that has produced two decades of Republican victories here.

Ideology aside, Ramsey Clark, 47, is an improbable candidate. Dressed in thin Levi slacks and hushpuppy shoes, he denounces "the political power of wealth" in moralistic speeches delivered in a monotone Texas twang. Speaking to supporters in a posh apartment on Manhattan's east side last week, Clark recited a W. H. Auden poem verbatim and quoted from Jose Ortega y Gasset, Reinhold Niebuhr, and Benito Juarez, lulling one drowager off to sleep.

Still more exotic is Clark's ideology. After serving out his term as Lyndon B. Johnson's last attorney general, Clark's course turned sharp left — climaxed by his 1972 appearance in Hanoi with Jane Fonda. He abhors compromise today, unequivocally supporting cross-county busing and backing unconditional amnesty for draft evaders and deserters.

What separates Clark from conventional candidates was underlined at last June's state convention in Niagara Falls when his seconding speech was delivered by Herbert X. Blyden, under indictment on four counts of kidnapping and two counts of murder as a 1971 Attica Prison rioter.

Describing Blyden as "a magnificent human being," Clark told us last week he was trying to impress critical social problems on the politicians.

This posture may offend ethnic workmen in Brooklyn and Buffalo in November, but it gives Clark a running start with hardcore left ideologues sure to vote

Sept. 10 — important, since even the 26 per cent Democratic primary turnout in 1972 may not be equalled this year. Even so, Clark's rise has been made possible only by another of the habitual collapses in New York Democratic leadership.

Ironically, Javits at age 70 might have been vulnerable this year. But state Democratic leaders, preoccupied with the governorship, never focused on the Senate except for a passing attempt at Niagara Falls to tap Rep. Ogden Reid.

Guided by regular leaders, the convention designated Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse as its Senate choice. Handsome, looking younger than his 46 years, an ethnic (Greek-American), a moderate liberal and a proven winner in a Republican city, Alexander seemed an excellent challenger against Javits — if he could become known throughout this big state.

He was doomed from the start. Although Alexander's supporters promised in Niagara Falls he would raise $600,000, commitments to him evaporated. He is running with a ludicrously small $70,000, compared with $1 million-plus war chests for the governor candidates and Clark's $180,000 raised by individual contributions not exceeding $100.

Underestimating Clark's campaign and overestimating the regulars' commitment to him, Alexander planned ahead for contesting Javits. His primary campaign did not really begin until Aug. 25. By then, polls showed Clark around 40 per cent and Alexander around 5 per cent with a huge undecided vote. When Alexander appeared in Manhattan last week walking down Fifth Avenue at midday, it was as if a candidate from Mars had landed here.

Lacking funds for a television blitz, Alexander is now seeking the undecided vote by painting Clark as an extremist. But in liberal New York, he cannot push too hard by raising matters such as that famous trip to Hanoi.

No prominent Democrat gives Alexander a chance, and the regulars have virtually abandoned him. "I feel pretty bad about Ramsey on the ticket," one Queens regular leader told us. "But my people really don't give a damn about it. They're interested in governor."

Such mindless apathy is familiar in Democratic politics here. But the advent of Ramsey Clark could be the syndrome's final spasm. The race for governor shows a different spirit building, the subject for a future column from here.

Papa's Talent Was Electrocuted

KEY WEST, FLA. — The young writer brought his wife here in 1928. Ernest and Pauline Hemingway bought a square sugar lump of a house downtown. It had fern-like palm trees, green lawns, ceiling-high French windows and porches with fluted railings. Behind it was a cottage where he could write.

Max Perkins of Scribner's sent word that his novels were selling well. So he bought the place for $6,000. The taut surface nerves under the boxer's muscles needed a winter place with a white sun, a sea laced with blue marlin, night rides with fast rummers to pick up liquor in Havana, and a nearby tavern where he could man-talk with fishermen.

He wrote well here, as he wrote well in summer at Ketchikan, Idaho, where the guns hung in racks and the man stalked game through swale grass down to the watering holes. He wrote, as he said, well and truly, but when the heart is strong and he head is right a writer remains young forever.

He fingered the white fence around the Audubon House and marveled at the big folios of paintings of birds placed inside by a Key West "Conch," Mitchell Wolfson. He squinted at the ancient weathered houses which had beaten the best of the hurricanes. He loved the smell of brine.

Hemingway had Toby Otto Bruce, a friend, a confidant, a driver. Bruce was a redheaded toothpick who could keep a secret. He was also a philosopher who knew that men and things decay and die.

First, prohibition died. Someone remembered Sloppy Joe's in Havana and built one near Hemingway's home. He and Toby waited until Pauline had a formal dinner party with the white place settings and the best silverware and the ceiling fans walking through dead night air.

Then they sneaked out the garden entrance to Sloppy Joe's. In the late hours, they returned singing rude songs with Conches. The Hemingway cats crouched in grass, staring saffron-eyed.

He got up early, sat alone upstairs in the cottage, and hammered the hard words of "To Have and Have Not" with a pencil. By noon he was written out, and he and Toby drove to the marina, unmoored the Pilar, and hooked the ballyhoo and mullet on copper leaders as they headed the boat out to fight the strong current chasing the tide from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic.

The beer was cold. The hits were rare enough to make it a gambler's game. Life was at high noon. Then a girl journalist made a trip to this beautiful town of outrageous color and old world charm. It was a good interview. Pauline lost a husband. Martha Gellhorn became the new Mrs. Hem.

There was a big war to be brave in and virile man with tender skin who stopped shaving to grow a beard. People began to call him "Papa." Wives too wear out. Papa got a new one.

He wrote great books and near-great ones. His hair was white; he roughed it on African safaris; he became a literary monument. The leeches clung to his skin, tickling and drawing blood. He said he scorned "the Swedish thing," but he accepted the Nobel Prize when it was offered.

Hemingway and the sturdy old house at Key West were one. The palms and the flaming royal poincianas and the walnut trees overgrew the building and obscured it. Cracks developed in the roof and the tears of thunder showers slid down the walls.

The writer and the house were no longer sure of themselves. The writer despaired. Twice he flew to the Mayo Clinic and twice he submitted to shock treatments. The lightning in his mind electrocuted the only talent a writer has — his memory for people and places and events.

One morning Papa Hemingway destroyed what was left by holding the twin barrels of a shotgun against the cool of his forehead. All of the inner fears, the childish suspicions, were gone in a roar he never heard.

Poll Shows McHugh, Libous in Lead

By LYNN MULVANEY

BINGHAMTON Tuesday's primary shows that a Republican and a Binghamton GOP Mayor Alfred J. Libous and former Tompkins County District Attorney Matthew McHugh, a Democrat, started, also indicates that very close to half of the 200 persons polled in each party were undecided about their vote.

The poll, the second one conducted by the Binghamton Press since the campaign The Republican poll gave Libous 30 votes, Broome County Executive Edwin L. Crawford, 18; Tioga County Treasurer Carl Saddlemyre, 13; Binghamton optician Richard H. Knauf, 4 and Binghamton attorney Franklin Resseguie, 5. Eighty-eight persons were undecided.

The Democratic poll gave McHugh 30 votes; Town of Union Supervisor Robert Kropp, 17; Ulster County's favorite son candidate, William Schechter of Lake Hill, 13; Michael Sloan, of Binghamton, 3. Ninety-four were undecided.

The telephone survey was first conducted in late June and early July. At that time Libous was also in the lead but Kropp, not McHugh was number one at that time.

The second poll was taken by calling back the same 200 persons to find out if their attitudes had changed with the progress of the various campaigns.

The press poll is in considerable contrast with one conducted by Crawford among 424 voters of the district in the last week of July. Crawford's poll showed he and Libous neck and neck with each securing 15.8 per cent of the vote.

The Republican poll in Ulster County showed no votes for Libous or Crawford, one for Saddlemyre, one for Resseguie and 18 undecided.

The Democratic poll in Ulster County gave none to McHugh or Kropp, one to Schechter and one to Sloan with 12 undecided.

The primary winner in each party Tuesday will face each other in the November general election, seeking the seat now held by a Republican Congressman Howard W. Robison, of Tioga County who is not seeking another term.

Atkinson Denies Charges

KINGSTON I bothered to inspect the Paul Atkinson, Liberal Party candidate for the 40th State Senatorial District, has denied allegations by incumbent Republican Richard E. Schermerhorn of Cornwall that he has resorted to character assassination for political gains in his indictment of Kingston landlord Charles Kempf.

After initial allegations by Atkinson in the Aug. 26 Sunday Freeman that Kempf's apartment houses in Downtown Kingston aren't fit for human habitation, Schermerhorn jumped to Kempf's defense, asserting the innocence of the landlord and laying the blame for property destruction and deterioration on the tenants themselves.

At one point in his statement, Schermerhorn, obviously referring to Atkinson, said, "... when one irresponsible attempts to assassinate the character of a responsible person for his own political gains, then I must respond." In answer to that charge, Atkinson said: "(Schermerhorn) apparently feels that I have attempted to assassinate the character of a responsible citizen for my own political gains. I can agree with only part of that charge. If anyone is injured or killed because of building violations while living in his apartments, Charles Kempf will indeed be responsible. As for the part about my own political gains, it should be pointed out to Senator Schermerhorn that I was involved in civil rights long before the start of this campaign. And Mr. Kempf will be understandably distressed to learn that I intend to keep an eye on his apartments long after the election in November."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, hesitating after Thursday's sharp technical advance.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, but gainers led losers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said hopes for an easing of tight money pressures were dimmed somewhat by weekly Federal Reserve data issued after Thursday's close, which showed a substantial rise in business loans at major New York banks.

Saugerties Meeting

SAUGERTIES
The Saugerties Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m. at the Saugerties Junior-Senior High school auditorium. On the agenda for discussion will be the sale of the Malden and Flatbush properties. Board of Education members are interested in the various viewpoints on this matter and invited interested residents of the district to attend.

SUPPLIES FOR REFUGEES — Members of the Cypriot Crisis Committee load cartons of food and clothing for shipment to Cyprus, to aid refugees who have been driven from their homes on the war-torn island. The local committee, working in cooperation with the Makarios Fund, collected more than 700 cartons of food and 300 cartons of clothing during the collection drive that started several weeks ago. The supplies were transported to New York's Kennedy Airport Wednesday night for immediate shipment to Cyprus. Fund drive volunteers included (L-R) Tracy Rafailides, George Maouris, Stanley Trataros and George D. Kakoulis. The collections will continue. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

The Ark Plans Sunday Outing

MT. TREMPER At the Sunday outing Ray Merry, the Ark's director will answer questions and explain the school to all interested.

This year all Ark students in the Ontario District will be bused to and from school. The school day will be from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. beginning Sept. 16 with registration and scheduling. Several new programs have been added this year including a music program designed by Dr. Carl Berger, director of the Creative Music Foundation.

Another innovation this year will be the Phase II group for gifted children. Only highly motivated children will be admitted to this group which will be BOICEVILLE Ratification of agreements reached by negotiating teams of the Superintendent of Schools of the Ontario Central School District and the Ontario Teachers Association is on the agenda for a special meeting of the Ontario Board of Education slated for Monday night, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Authorization of payment to Flexible Systems, Inc., for the leasing of a modular classroom is also on the agenda for the special meeting.

Police Search For Gunman

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — Police were searching today for a lone gunman who escaped with $1,800 Thursday from a branch of the Empire National Bank in a suburban mall. Authorities said the man, a white male, about 5-8, with curly blond hair, teller to fill a bag with $20 bills and then ran away. No injuries were reported in the incident at the Mid Valley Mall. The robber was described as

Murder Trial Is Postponed

KINGSTON allegedly strangling George Chichelsky, the 65-year old man with whom she lived at 33 Broadway in November 1973, has been postponed from Sept. 4 to Sept. 16 or as soon as a robbery trial currently in County Court is concluded.

'Call Sam, Somebody Stole The Falcon'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If Humphrey Bogart were alive today, he might again be playing "Sam Spade" in search of the stolen Maltese Falcon.

The 18-inch statue, which had eluded Bogart, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre in the 1941 film classic, was stolen in real life Thursday from the Los Angeles County Art Museum.

The bird was on loan from Warner Bros. for a show of film memorabilia when it was discovered missing Thursday from its wood-framed glass case.

The statue is valued at $200, but as a souvenir it would be worth much more.

In the film "The Maltese Falcon," Bogart played "Sam Spade," a cynical private investigator whose partner is killed in a plot woven around the sculpture.

A museum official said several other items on the lobby floor also were stolen.

Double Bubble Doubles Price

TORONTO (UPI) — Fleece Ltd. said Thursday its product, Double Bubble gum, will now sell for twice the price — two cents a piece instead of one cent.

Fleece, a licensee of Fleece Corp. in the United States, where the price has been two cents for Double Bubble for about four months, blamed soaring costs, principally for sugar, for the price hike. The company tried to console its young customers by promising that "even bigger bubbles" could be blown with two-cent gum because the size of the piece would be bigger.

Betty Ford Favors: ERA, Art, Abortion Laws . . .

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first full-scale White House news conference by a president's wife, Betty Ford has said she plans to avoid political issues but would be happy to campaign for the Equal Rights Amendment for women.

Smiling her way through a half-hour of questioning before an overflow crowd of 142 reporters and cameramen in the state dining room, Mrs. Ford said she will hold news conferences "as often as I think the press has anything to ask of interest."

In the wide-ranging session, Mrs. Ford said she favors liberalized abortion laws and that she would encourage women to play an active role in politics.

Mrs. Ford gave differing responses about her feelings on a second term for her husband when reporters pressed her on son Jack's report that she was upset at the prospect of Ford's running in 1976.

Do you want him to run again? "I feel at this point two years is quite a long way away. I wouldn't want to commit myself one way or another."

Then, asked whether she would run happily with Ford in 1976, the President's wife said, "It depends on the state of the country."

For her part, though, she said, "It depends on the state politically active part in politics as far as issues are concerned."

But, when asked if she would be active in campaigning for approval of the Equal Rights Amendment in states which have not voted on it, she said, "Yes, I would be happy to take part in it."

As for her role as First Lady, Mrs. Ford said she's already finding it's "a very busy life." She said she expects her interests to be in art and children, especially the underprivileged and mentally retarded.

Mrs. Ford said she sees no reason why the Fords won't maintain their normal family relationship in the White House. She said she was "completely dumbfounded" the way the children adjusted. They were just perfectly happy. We have had servants at home, so it isn't as if we were not used to having help."

She reported that the President, who always made his own breakfast in their Alexandria, Va., home, "has become accustomed to the very good service we have in the upstairs family dining room. He finds it quite convenient. So I can't promise you that he is getting his own breakfast."

The only previous First Lady to hold formal White House press conferences was Eleanor Roosevelt, but hers were limited to women reporters.

FIRST LADY BETTY FORD arrives to hold her first news conference in the White House Wednesday, Sept. 4. Mrs.

Ford has promised to hold such sessions regularly. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

National Defense Is Topic Here For DAR Speaker

State Vice Chairman of National Defense for Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. William H. Fulkerson, was a guest speaker in Kingston this week. She met with members of Wiltwyck Chapter on Tuesday, Sept. 3 at the Chapter House.

In her speech, Mrs. Fulkerson stated the critical subject of complete disarmament between the USA and USSR, which the State Department has flinched with since 1961, would turn this country into a second class military power. Mrs. Fulkerson also said the Bricker Amendment is more urgent today than ever before and she asked her audience to be alert and write to representatives in Congress pointing out that "our country is in jeopardy."

Regent Mrs. Warren A. Russell later announced at a business meeting that the Naturalization Court was slated for September 19. Americanism Chairman for the DAR is Mrs. Conrad J. Gross.

In other activities, the DAR will sponsor a rummage sale September 11-13; Constitution Week will be observed September 15-19; a pilgrimage to the D & H Canal, Tavern, Lock and Museum at High Falls is scheduled for October 19 with luncheon at Lake Mohonk afterwards; a special tour of the Chapter House in Kingston is slated for October 4 at 8:45 a.m. Hostesses will be at the Chapter House by 9:30 a.m. Open House for the Fall Festival on October 12 will be conducted from 2 to 4 p.m.

A Resolution was read into the record for the late Louise van Hovenberg, a past regent of Wiltwyck Chapter. It was read by Mrs. Francella Smith.

Hostesses for the dinner were the Mmes. Martin Hagle, Robert Hughes, Sanford Cross, with Mrs. Preston Witherell as chairman.

Mrs. Adam H. Porter is public relations chairman for the Chapter.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tiano, who were wed on August 24, are now at home at 38 Marys Avenue, Kingston.

Woman Heads National GOP

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford has given a new look to the first team at Republican national headquarters by naming the GOP's first woman chairman.

Mrs. Mary Louise Smith of Iowa, a veteran GOP organizer who ran a series of grass-roots workshops in her months as co-chairman, was chosen by Ford on Wednesday to replace George Bush.

Bush, who spent much of his 20-month tenure defending former President Richard M. Nixon, will head the U. S. mission to mainland China with the rank of ambassador.

Mrs. Smith, who will be elected formally when the Republican National Committee meets here Sept. 16, said she will name Richard Obenshain of Virginia as her co-chairman, the party's No. 2 post.

Announcing the new political alignment Wednesday, Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said former Republican National Chairman Dean Burch will remain on the White House staff as "campaign coordinator" for the 1974 elections.

Gwen Anderson, the Washington state Republican committeewoman who served on Ford's vice presidential staff, will be Burch's deputy, terHorst said.

Mrs. Smith, 59, said she hopes to make the national chairmanship "an ideal combination" of its twin past roles of being a spokesman for the national administration and trying to strengthen the Republican party organizationally.

She said she doesn't think the GOP has done enough to attract "women and blacks and other underrepresented groups" but added she opposes mandatory quotas as a means of assuring their participation.

Mrs. Smith called herself "a moderate conservative." She was a Nixon delegate in 1968 but said she "was not part of the Goldwater movement" in 1964.

MARY LOUISE SMITH is the first woman to head the National Republican Party. When President Ford nominated GOP National Chairman George Bush to become U. S. envoy to China, he recommended veteran party worker Mary Smith. Mrs. Smith of Des Moines, Iowa, is currently co-chairman of the national committee. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'Sir or Madame' Looks Better All the Time

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Ms W." requests a non-sexist salutation for business letters.

Why is a salutation necessary at all? It should have been discarded years ago with such useless phrases as, "Beg leave to reply to your favor of the 15th instance," and "your most obedient servant."

"Dear Anybody" is both redundant and archaic, along with the traditional "Very truly yours," which, in a business letter, is the ultimate in hypocrisy. No?

MISS BRANIGAN
DEAR MISS B.: Yes. Many non-sexist salutations for business letters were submitted. For example: "Gentle-person," or the plural, "Gentlepeople."

Others suggested the bright and cheery, "Good morning!" (How about those who don't get around to reading their mail until 4 P.M.?)

Try, "Dear Person." (That's too impersonal, like "Occupant.")

Also, "Hi there," or would you believe, "Howdy!" Come to think of it, "Dear Sir or Madame," or "To whom it may concern" are beginning to look better to me.

DEAR ABBY: After 13 years of marriage, my husband and I were divorced for the age-old reason. Another woman. We have two children, 10 and 12, which made it a very painful ordeal for me.

My husband married the "other woman." He has visitation rights, which are fair enough, but when he comes to pick up the children, he and his wife and her eight-year-old son come right to my door. I feel I have to invite them in, and then I have to ask them to sit down. Once they are seated they stay and stay until I feel compelled to offer them some refreshments.

Meanwhile, making small talk with them is sheer torture because I feel so uncomfortable in this woman's presence. I can hardly look at her at my husband's side without wanting to burst into tears.

It seems an eternity until they take my children and leave. They sometimes come back "early," and again they are all at my door, expecting to be invited in. These visits are a terrible strain for me.

I can't help how I feel, Abby. Am I wrong? How should I handle this?

STILL HURTING
DEAR STILL: Ask your lawyer to write your husband a letter suggesting that he either pick up the children alone, or leave his wife and stepchild in the car. You're not wrong. There's no reason why you should be cast in the role of an unwilling hostess.

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased to see that you view reading a spouse's mail as a violation of privacy, and place it in the same class with reading a child's diary or listening in on the extension telephone. Those are exactly my sentiments.

The wedding of Miss Penelope Plass of Route 1, Red Hook, as her sister's honor attendant, wore a gown of pale blue polyester voile designed with a fitted bodice, square neckline pouf sleeves and demi-bell skirt. A panel of embossed organza in white floral pattern accented the bodice, cuffs and set-in waistband. Edging of white, scalloped Venice lace braid trimmed the neckline and bodice panel. The skirt featured a deep flounce of the embossed design. She carried a nosegay of blue daisies with white accents.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Mullins. Joseph Eigo was organist.

Dr. Plass gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of imported satin-faced organza fashioned with a modified Empire bodice, high, sheer yoked neckline, cavalier sleeves of floral patterned Nottingham lace and A-line skirt. Nottingham lace and a vertical scalloped hand-applique of seed pearls created a Vee detail on the bodice. Shirred lace edged the detail, created a stand-up collar, and cuffed the sleeves. The skirt hem was designed with a deep border of lace and the ruffled edging encircled the hem, and cathedral train. She wore a camelot designed headpiece of floral lace and seed pearls to which was shirred a triple tiered chapel length veil. She carried a nosegay of daisies with blue accents.

I don't want to see my wife's mail, and that means even after it has been opened and is in plain view. When my wife has had a telephone conversation, I never ask: "Who was that, dear?" I figure if she wants to tell me, she will volunteer the information.

I offer you free of charge my father's philosophy: "Don't ever put another person in the position of having to lie to you."

VALUES PRIVACY
DEAR VALUES: We agree — to a point. But no one "has to" lie. Simply say: "I prefer not to answer that question."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

A Little Cornstarch Goes a Long Way!

By HELOISE CRUISE
A LITTLE CORNSTARCH
GOES A LONG WAY!

Dear Heloise:
Boy, you'll never know how much I enjoy your most useful column. I always read it, even if I don't find time for the front page. It sure saved my hubby's neck the other night.

He tracked in grease from the oil fields where he works. Our rug looked like, well, you can imagine. That cornstarch really did the job. He said a big thanks to you, too.

A reader

Dear Folks:
What I said in the column was:

To remove grease (nearly all spots) on rugs, pour some dry cornstarch directly on the spot. Rub it in with a brush. Cloth will not penetrate into the fibers like a brush will.

Leave overnight. The next morning simply vacuum it up. If this method is followed carefully, the spot should disappear. You can use this on any type of rug.

One woman wrote she used it on grease spots on a cotton dress and it worked beautifully. If this fails on some cottons, I use dime store white chalk and mark on both sides of the material. Let sit overnight. Wash as usual.

And there is always something funny in my mail. I wrote this hint on a carpet sometime ago, and I got a letter from a husband that really "smarted"...

"And I have a feeling that I am going to tear your column out of the paper from now on before my wife gets hold of it. And if you were here right now I would wring your sweet little neck."
"My wife is the kind that if one spoonful of something is good, she will take two. She bought 10 boxes of cornstarch and sprinkled it all over our living room carpet and brushed it in. When I got home, I was the little milquetoast who had to vacuum it all up. Nuts to you and her."

I sent him a get-well card

So take heed. And r-e-a-d! Love 'ya, Heloise

Having a baby can be a pretty expensive experience these days, and there isn't always money for the fun extravaganzas for baby.

When ours was 7 weeks old, I made her a mobile out of a baby clothes hanger, some bright yarn and five or six of the many rattles all Mommys-to-be get at the baby showers.

Just tie the rattles from the hanger at different lengths with the yarn. It's as handy as can be — just hang it wherever baby goes (crib, playpen or swing).

Dear Heloise:

When buying a gift, or something for yourself, particularly anything that has to be tried on, remove the price tag and fasten it to the sales slip.

Mark the store and item on the back of the sales slip. If you have to return the article, the salesperson is most appreciative. Give them a break.

Gladys

Dear Heloise:

The type of rubber gloves with which you get an extra right hand aren't of much use to us left-handed women, as we usually damage the left glove first and are then stuck with two right-hand gloves.

The other day I used my head and turned the extra glove inside out and wore it on my left hand. I then placed my damaged left-hand glove over the top of that.

It not only worked, but my left hand was doubly protected against the hot dish-water!

HEART-TO-HEART

NEWS FROM YOUR MID-HUDSON HEART ASSOCIATION

VOLUME II ISSUE 6 SEPTEMBER 6, 1974

75 LUCAS AVE., KINGSTON, N. Y. 12401-914-338-8517

Executive Director: MRS. WILLIAM D. BRINNIE III (Sally)

Serving Columbia, Greene and Ulster Counties

Public Relations and Fund Raising Director: ELIZABETH ARELLA

WHAT ARE CORONARY RISK FACTORS?

Coronary Risk Factors are always present in some combination when cardiovascular disease (CVD) occurs. They are:

- Family history of CVD
- Overweight
- High Blood Pressure
- Cigarette Smoking
- High cholesterol level
- Insufficient Exercise
- Diabetes

The more you have, the greater your risk.

FIRST FREE CORONARY RISK FACTOR SCREENING

OFFERED BY MID-HUDSON HEART ASSOCIATION AND IBM, KINGSTON

Dr. Edmond H. Reppert, President of the Heart Association, Mrs. William D. Brinnier, III, Executive Director and Mr. Paul Berish, general coordinator for screening by IBM.

SCREENING SCHEDULE FOR FALL 1974

ELLENVILLE—Schroder Cutlery Corp.
(Employees Only)

Sept. 9-10

RONDOUT—Rondout Recreation Center

Sept. 23-24-25

HUDSON—First Reformed Church

Oct. 3-4

TANNERSVILLE—Marian Hall

Oct. 7-8

CAN YOU GUARD AGAINST THESE RISK FACTORS?

Yes — knowledge can save your life. Know your own risk factors by having yourself checked. If you reduce them, you can reduce your risk of heart attack and stroke. Know the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke, particularly if you are a male between 35-65. The speed with which you get emergency treatment can mean life or death, or permanent damage.

CAN YOU DETERMINE YOUR RISKS?

See your physician regularly and/or take part in this coronary screening.

It's as easy as:

- (A) Apply — Advance Registration is required. Keep your appointment.
- (B) Be in the right place at the right time —
- (C) Carry out follow-up if indicated.

WHO WILL CONDUCT THE SCREENING?

General Coordinator is Mr. Paul Berish, provided by IBM.

Nurse Coordinators are:

Columbia County, Mrs. Lewis A. Jarett, R.N.
Greene County, Mrs. Frances Sarro, R.N.
Ulster County, Mrs. Janet McElrath, R.N.

These are Heart volunteers.

Professionals will include

- Community service-minded physicians who are particularly concerned with cardiovascular problems and will donate their time to review each test.
- Also, teams of specially qualified nurses and technicians from your own community will be trained to administer the tests.

Non-professional volunteers

- Recruited locally, will assist by recording computer data and family histories. They will also maintain a smooth flow of traffic from one station to the next.

HOW DOES RISK FACTOR SCREENING WORK?

It's easy. Make an appointment and report to the location listed in your area at the appointed time, and proceed through the program. The half hour it will take may save your life.

Stations:

- Registration
Name and address.
Vital Statistics.
Name of physician for follow-up.

- Height and Weight.

- Blood Pressure.

- Case History.

- EKG (Electrocardiogram)

The rhythm of the heart is recorded on tape by attaching electrical conductors to the skin on the chest and legs. All patients must strip to the waist and females remove panty-hose for this test, which will be made in a screened-off area.

- Blood Tests

Your sample will be analyzed at the IBM White Plains Laboratory within forty-eight hours for the following:
Blood sugar - to detect diabetes.
Cholesterol and triglyceride.
High levels of these fatty substances in the blood are considered to be a substantial risk.
Uric acid and blood sugar.

- Patient Counselling

The results will be reviewed and discussed with each patient by a professional, stressing the importance of additional medical followup where indicated.

The Counsellor will explain and answer any questions the screenee may have except those that require physician consultation.

FOLLOW-UP PROCEDURES

Test results will be mailed to your designated physician. The patient will also be urged to see his physician for further examination and treatment if tests so indicate.

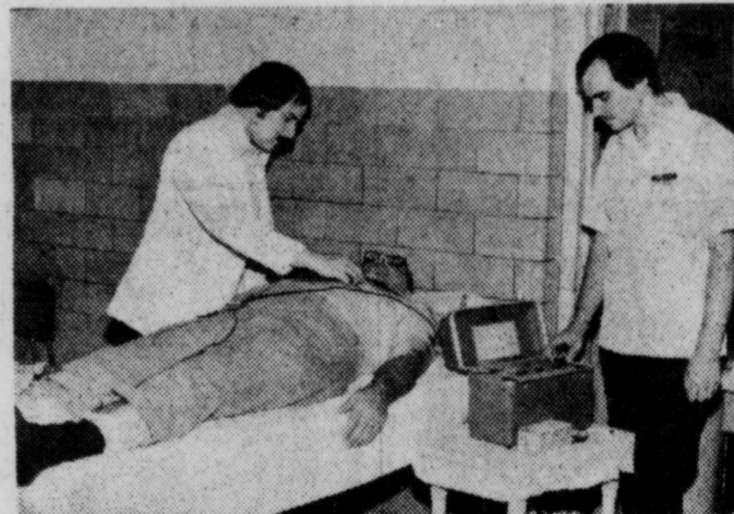

It is hoped that those who have findings outside normal limits will take the precautions needed and continue to have regular check-ups.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR FREE SCREENING?

Your Heart Association has chosen several areas in Greene, Columbia, and Ulster Counties where screening will be done. These locations were selected in an effort to provide Coronary Risk Factor Screening for:

- people who do not have sufficient medical help immediately available in their area.
- working men and women who cannot take time off for physical exams.
- those with insufficient income to provide regular checkups.
- those who prior to reading this, failed to have regular checkups because they didn't think it was important.

The target area is the 35 to 65 years old male, because he suffers the highest incidence of heart attack and stroke. The black population runs even greater risk — 25% higher than whites. Anyone 18 years or older may register at designated sites.

$1,460,000 Bid for 9W Reconditioning Project

By JON POWERS

ALBANY — A low bid of $1,460,000 was opened at Department of Transportation offices in Albany Thursday for extensive reconditioning work on a nine-tenths-of-a-mile section of Route 9W (Ulster Avenue Mall) in the Town of Ulster.

The low bid, one of six submitted to the DOT, was offered by Halmer Construction Corp. of Mt. Vernon.

A spokesman for the DOT told the Freeman Thursday that it will take "about a month" for the department, the state Comptroller's office and the Attorney General's office to review the bids. A contract, he said, should be awarded in early October.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) said he has been told that preliminary work could begin this fall. The scheduled completion date for the project, established by the Department of Transportation, is Nov. 15, 1975.

The less than a mile section of Route 9W — between the Caldor Shopping Plaza and the railroad overpass near where the East Chester Street By-pass and Boice's Lane intersect with Ulster Avenue Mall. In addition, delays that motorists face exiting from Mammoth Mall and the Montgomery Ward parking lot should also be reduced.

Improvements to the highway have long been sought by Town of Ulster officials and the Ulster Business and Professional Association. Bell has consistently lobbied in the legislature for funds for the project; he noted Thursday that Thursday from: Thalle Con-... Elmsford, $1,682,402; Asphalt, Inc., Tarrytown Construction Co., Yonkers, Callanan Industries Inc., South $2,113,867; and I. and O. A. $1,574,632; Balport Construction Bethlehem, $2,073,354; County Slatky, Inc., Hunter, $2,727,128.

The widening project is only the first of three phases; eventually the road will be widened from the Route 209 overpass into the City of Kingston. The second phase would extend from the railroad overpass to the city limits; the third phase would continue southward to the intersection of Foxhall and Albany Avenues.

Other bids were submitted

Board Votes to Use Four RR Crossings

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON — The Kingston Board of Education voted Thursday night to use four unguarded railroad crossings for school buses because reasonable alternatives are not available.

Three of the crossings are in Kingston, at the East O'Reilly - Prince - Garden-Harbrough Avenue intersection, and on Greenkill Avenue near the Metropolitan Building. The fourth is on DeWitt Mills Road in the Town of Rosendale near the Alpine Restaurant entrance.

Three other unguarded crossings, at Cornell Street and O'Neil Street in Kingston and at Rockwell Avenue on old Route 32 south of the city, will be bypassed because alternatives are available.

A recently enacted law, effective Oct. 1, was passed as an aftermath of a tragic crossing accident two years ago in Rockland County in which several students in a bus were killed by a train. The law requires districts to hold a public hearing, to pass a resolution to use unguarded crossings because alternatives are not available, to submit copies of the resolution to the State Commissioners of Education and Transportation, and to prepare a map showing the location of all crossings.

At a public hearing preceding the board's regular meeting, Kenneth Hyatt Jr., assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, showed color slide photos of all seven crossings and explained traffic problems at each.

Only one person spoke on the matter. Attilio Contini of Bloomington said he saw no reason why the district couldn't use all seven crossings and called the new law "ridiculous."

At the regular meeting Harry Thayer, president of Kingston radio station WGHQ, asked if school district budgets could be put up for referendum. He said a legal question was involved and criticized the board because its attorney seldom attended meetings.

Joseph Feraca, board president, told Thayer that all remarks at board meetings were taken under advisement and that he would have an answer "within the next few weeks."

Thayer said the board had received his letter on the matter on June 24 and should have been prepared to answer. Thayer complimented the board for doing away with executive sessions, calling it a "great step forward." He asked why all classes could not begin with a Pledge of Allegiance and a moment of silence. Feraca said all schools recited the Pledge and that the moment of silence was optional with teachers.

Wayne Schubert, who said he had visited numerous school districts while traveling in his work, said he was convinced that "taxpayers of this district cannot take on the burden of a new high school."

Schubert said it might be possible to use Miller Junior High School for high school classes while the old high school on Broadway is refurbished and asked to be furnished with enrollment figures so he could make a further study of the matter.

Contini also spoke against a

Pittsburgh Paint Industries for de-paint, enamel, and turpentine building a new high school when you will have empty buildings before long?" he asked.

The board passed 7-2 two transportation resolutions, one calling for $1,000 to Ethan Allen Enterprises to transport physically handicapped children, the other allotting $8,970 for six buses for Miller Junior High School at 3:30 p.m. Dissenters were Fred Hofbauer and Mrs. Marianne Darrow.

Contracts were awarded to said.

Salzmann said the district would send a representative to a Sept. 12 meeting called by Mayor Francis R. Koenig to discuss the uptown parking situation, including the possibility of allowing evening and weekend parking on the district's Crown Street parking lot and lots on either side of the building.

The board voted to change meeting time to 8 p.m. and will hold its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 3, at the Emma Wygant School in Kingston.

Transcendental Lecture Set

KINGSTON If, after those two initial steps, a prospective student decides to enroll in the course, a fee will be charged.

The course consists of just seven meetings, consisting of both group sessions and individual meetings with the instructor. According to Brazil, the TM method is not particularly complicated, and can be taught and learned easily.

Transcendental Meditation consists of two 15-20 minute solitary meditation sessions, commonly held in the morning and evening. The meditation periods, which are said to induce natural tranquility, help to reduce stress and stimulate the mind.

According to scientific studies, TM contributes to increased intelligence, improved attention, increased learning ability, faster reaction time, increased sociability and reduced antisocial behavior, improved job performance, improved relations with co-workers and superiors and increased job satisfaction.

TM has been proven successful in helping to rehabilitate institutionalized felons, and assisting persons in reducing their use of tobacco and alcohol. Studies have shown that TM has been used successfully to reduce instances of drug abuse among teenagers.

The meditation periods, and accompanying reduction of stress and tension, have provided relief from insomnia.

Robert Brazil, Kingston-area director for the International Meditation Society (IMS), will conduct the opening lecture, intended to outline and explain the philosophies and theories behind Transcendental Meditation. The introductory lecture will serve as a prelude to a seven-step program of instruction and guidance into the TM methods.

Both the introductory lecture and a later preparatory lecture will be offered without charge.

Wickman Is Rhinebeck Consultant

RHINEBECK The Town of Rhinebeck is the envy of many of its neighbors for its landfill site, a garbage dump without peer in the area, and the recommended site for a Northern Dutchess County solid waste study.

And while the dump is supposedly good for many years, the leaching problems at the occasioned the appointment of Thomas Wickman of Kingston this week as consultant to solve the leaching problem at the landfill site.

Wickman has been used as a consultant by the town's planning board during the past summer.

At Tuesday's board meeting, a recommendation from the Rhinebeck Environmental Commission to declare a moratorium on the building of nuclear power plants in the town was tabled until October.

The unanimous recommendation for the commission was set aside until Supervisor William Allen could invite chairman of the town commission Peter Dykeman to the October meeting to discuss the recommendation in detail.

Vandalism at the town landfill site and thefts of such items as gasoline have become more common of late, according to town officials. Councilman Clark Henderson said that two minors had been arrested for breaking windows and causing an estimated $800 damage at the site, but the town decided not to prosecute in lieu of restitution of the expended money for restoration.

He said the building had been burglarized several times recently also and gasoline had been missing, citing a growing problem with vandalism.

A special meeting to be held Sept. 17, 7:30 p. m. at the town hall will be held for the purpose of considering applications for several volunteer town positions.

Supervisor Allen said that the town is actively seeking applications to several posts from interested town residents, on either the planning board or zoning board of appeals.

The vacancies are: one on the board of appeals, and two on the planning board.

A band concert will be held in the Jaycee Mini-Park Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

And a Sept. 9 meeting is set for board members to negotiate a three-year fire contract with the Rhinebeck Fire Prevention District.

Allen said that a preliminary

this weekend!

COME SEE HOW YOU CAN USE OUR MONEY TO BUILD YOUR HOME

If you've been looking for a quality home in the mid-teens to thirty thousand price range, you can't afford to miss seeing one of our 35 models close up. You'll find out how easily your family can have that new home they've been dreaming about—now.

Shown here:
THE CRESTWOOD
Just 1 of our 35 attractive models. This spacious Bi-Level has 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, dramatic entrance foyer, a dream kitchen, and more in its 1,740 sq. ft. of living area.

OUR NEW "OPEN DOOR" FINANCE PLAN IS THE KEY.

As one of America's largest homebuilders, we have the financial resources to help thousands of families get their new homes now. It's easy to qualify. If you own (or can get) a building lot free and clear you can take advantage of our flexible new "Open Door" finance plan right now. Our rates are competitive, there are no "points" to pay, and you have the option to put off your first installment until 1975! Best of all—your down payment will likely be less than one month's rent!

FIND OUT HOW AFFORDABLE YOUR RIDGE HOME CAN BE.

Come and visit the home we're building near you. It isn't completely finished yet, because we'd like you to see how the proud owners chose to save thousands of dollars by doing some of the interior finishing themselves. It's a great way to beat inflation. Come see this weekend.

FREE. OUR FULL COLOR 88-PAGE HOME PLANNING MAGAZINE.

The Ridge Homes Magazine shows all our basic models . . . tells how you can customize and plan to suit your family's needs . . . explains how you choose kitchen appliances, fixtures, colors, everything . . . and how it's all included! More important, the magazine tells you how to get started now. It's free at our Open House. (If you can't stop by for your copy, write to: RIDGE HOMES MAGAZINE, 1100 Ridge Pike, Conshohocken, PA 19428.)

SEE FOR YOURSELF.

Come see how you can choose the home you want from 35 models: 20 ranchers, 7 bi-levels, and 8 two-stories, and how you can afford the home you choose!

Clip and save the directions below and come over this weekend. You'll be glad you did!

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE TO SEE HOW YOU CAN AFFORD YOUR DREAM HOME NOW!

You're closer to a new Ridge home than you think! Come out this Sat. and Sun. only, 1 pm to 7 pm, rain or shine!

We turn dreams into homes . . . every day.

Joe Gilliam Is No. 1 On Steelers

IRVING, TEX. (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said today Joe Gilliam is the team's No. 1 quarterback. Noll made his choice following Gilliam's first half heroics Thursday night during a game in which the Steelers throttled the Dallas Cowboys 41-5 to complete their first undefeated exhibition season in the team's 41-year history.

Noll said the game would be the one that would decide which quarterback would be his starter. The results left little doubt in Noll's mind.

"It looks like we are going to have to go with Joe Gilliam," Noll said.

Gilliam, the second year man

A Series Without Nicklaus

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — For the first time in five years, Jack Nicklaus is missing from the select, four-man group of the world's major titleholders who make up the field for the World Series of Golf.

The two-day, 36-hole affair begins Saturday with South African Gary Player, the Masters and British Open champion, U.S. Open king Hale Irwin, PGA champ Lee Trevino and host pro Bobby Nichols chasing a $50,000 first prize.

Only the winners of the game's Big Four tournaments—the British and U.S. Opens, the Masters and PGA—have automatic entry into this event that ranks as the game's most elite.

With Player sweeping two of the qualifying tournaments, hometown hero Nichols—who combines his duties as head pro at the host Firestone Country Club with a heavy tour schedule—became eligible as the first alternate, winner of the Canadian Open.

Nicklaus didn't make it. He challenged in the last round of the Masters, had a shot at the Canadian national championship and lost by a single shot to Trevino in the PGA. And he won last week's Tournament Players Championship, an event that aspires to major championship status.

It wasn't enough. With Nicklaus missing—for only the fourth time in the history of the tournament—Player ranks as a solid favorite.

He has two things going for him:

First, he's enjoying perhaps the best season of his career, with his two major titles, another victory in Memphis, several more in South Africa and more than $100,000 in official winnings.

Second, he's shown a marked affinity for this tournament. He's won it three times. Only Nicklaus has won it more often.

Portions of both rounds will be telecast nationally by NBC-TV.

Southern Tie

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Veteran Jim Ferrell went back to his old swing while rookie Lynn Litt got into the swing for the first time as the two found themselves locked in a tie for the lead entering today's second round of the $100,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament.

"I've gone back to my old swing of last year," said Ferrell Thursday after shooting a three-under-par 67, which included six birdies and three bogies. The 32-year-old Louisville, Ky., native, a touring pro since 1969, has earned just $12,000 this year in addition to missing the cut or failing to qualify in 17 of his last 21 starts.

Litt, 24, a graduate of the PGA qualifying school last year, admitted he was in "an unusual position. I've never led a tournament before," he said as he appeared somewhat nervous before a group of newsmen.

The two golfers toured the par 70, 6,701-yard Green Island Country Club course in a steady rain for their 67s to lead a group bunched at one shot behind, including J.C. Snead.

Snead, runnerup to Jack Nicklaus in last week's Tournament Players Championship in Atlanta, birdied two holes in shooting a 68, while his more famed uncle, Sam Snead, could manage only a 73.

Last year's runnerup, Forrest Fezler, was at 70 along with Bruce Crampton, Timmy Aaron and Gardner Dickinson. Third-leading money winner Hubert Green was at 73, while previous Southern winners Mason Rudolph and DeWitt Weaver were further back in this fifth annual event with its $20,000 first prize. Rudolph shot a 74 and Weaver a 76.

Many of the game's top names, including defending champion Gary Player, were competing in the World Series of Golf. Along with Player, the Masters and British Open winner, were U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, PGA champ Lee Trevino and Canadian Open titleist Bobby Nichols. Leading money winner Johnny Miller, Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer took the week off.

from Tennessee State, moved into the No. 1 quarterback role for the Steelers thanks to his sixth consecutive grade "A" performance.

He played the first half in the nationally televised crunch of the Cowboys, threw 18 passes, completed 10, accounted for 187 passing yards. Two of his passes were touchdowns—a 56-yarder to Ron Shanklin on the first offensive series and a 31-yarder to rookie John Stallworth.

Once Gilliam left, things didn't get any better for Dallas since Terry Bradshaw and Terry Hanratty also each threw a scoring pass.

"We played an awfully good ball game," Noll said. "There is no doubt about it. This is a very nice way to go into the season. I'm not displeased with anybody."

The Cowboys appeared to be anything but a playoff contender, finishing their exhibition season with a 3-3 mark.

"When you stand flat-footed like we did tonight," Landry said, "you can't expect to win football games. We got whipped real good. We haven't looked that bad in pre-season in some time. Pittsburgh is a good football team and they are ready for the season."

Duane's 'Comeback'

Duane Thomas, the recalcitrant, controversial running back, begins his "comeback" with the Washington Redskins tonight.

Thomas was being counted on as a starter until recently, when he became involved in a disagreement with assistant coach Charlie Waller and was put on waivers. Thomas later apologized to head coach George Allen, was recalled from waivers a week ago and was reinstated earlier this week.

But he hasn't yet regained his starting job. "He's got to work his way back up," said Allen.

Thomas will begin that work tonight, when the Redskins meet the Baltimore Colts in a National Football League exhibition game at Washington.

In other NFL preseason action tonight, the New York Giants will be at Buffalo, St. Louis at Kansas City and Cincinnati will play Green Bay at Milwaukee.

On Saturday, it will be the New York Jets against the Oakland Raiders at Berkeley, Calif., Cleveland at Detroit, New Orleans at Houston, Miami at Chicago, and San Diego at Minnesota.

The NFL exhibition season will conclude Sunday, with Los Angeles at San Francisco, Philadelphia at New England and Atlanta at Denver in a nationally televised game. The regular season begins Sept. 15.

Strength vs. Strength

It will be strength against strength tonight—if the players have any left after playing Monday night—to determine first place in the World Football League Eastern Division.

The New York Stars own the best rushing attack in the WFL, and send it against the Florida Blazers, who have allowed only 119 points this season, the lowest figure in the league.

Both clubs are 6-3 but Florida has lost two of its last three games while New York has won six of its last seven.

Bob Gladioux is New York's top runner and comes off a 161-yard effort against Philadelphia Monday night. George Sauer and Al Young, New York's top receivers, both are out with injuries but rookie Kreg Kaptan has been impressive as a substitute.

Bob Davis runs the Florida attack and one of his key receivers has been tight end Greg Latta. Tommy Reamon is the top rusher.

In other WFL action tonight, the Hawaiians are at Portland, Houston at Memphis and Southern California at Detroit in the only games scheduled.

Chicago is at Birmingham Saturday.

In Thursday night's national television game, the Jacksonville Sharks beat the Philadelphia Bell 34-30.

"There ain't but one king in Jacksonville and that's me," yelled Reggie Oliver after he led the Sharks over Philadelphia and Bell quarterback King Corcoran. "We ain't giving no slack from now on—we're taking it on."

Matuszak Waits

HOUSTON (UPI) — Defensive lineman John Matuszak remained on the sidelines today waiting to find out which team and in which pro football league the courts would order him to play for next week.

Matuszak, the Houston Oilers No. 1 draft choice in 1973 who jumped to the World Football League Houston Texans and took his case to court Thursday, will not play for the Texans at Memphis tonight. A court order prevents that.

DANCE TIME — Bernie Carbo (R) of Boston and Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter appear to be doing a dance as Carbo bounces off Porter while being tagged out at the plate during second inning of Thursday night's game. Carbo was nabbed after teammate Rick Burleson hit to first baseman George Scott, who made throw home to get the Sox runner. (UPI)

REALLY STRETCHING IT — Cecil Cooper (17) of the Red Sox slides head-first into third as Don Money, Brewers' third baseman, tries for the tag (top) during sixth inning Thursday night. Cooper, who was safe on the play, lies on ground in pain (bottom), after he strained his right ankle on the play. Trainer Buddy LeRoux comes to his aid. Sox lost seventh straight, 4-3. (UPI)

'Fever' Weakens Red Sox

The pennant fever which the Boston Red Sox have had since climbing into first place July 14 seems to have weakened them for the home stretch and the New York Yankees are deliriously happy.

The slumping Red Sox seventh straight loss, a 4-3 setback Thursday night by the Milwaukee Brewers, enabled the idle Yankees to slip into first place for the first time since May 11.

Boston's tailspin, coupled with the Yankees' hottest streak of the year and the quiet resurgence of the Baltimore Orioles, has turned the previously humdrum American League East into a three-way dogfight that will be decided over the last three weeks of the season.

"It's just a team batting slump. There's nothing I can do," said Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson. "I can't go out there and hit for them. They're trying too hard. Everyone's been trying to hit the ball out of the park."

The Sox, who led the AL East by seven games two weeks ago, were shot down by three Brewer homers to fall a half game behind the Yankees. Baltimore, which did not play Thursday, remains two games out.

Gorman Thomas, playing in his first game since being recalled from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League, belted a homer with a man on in the ninth inning to bring the Milwaukee Brewers, enabled the idle Yankees to slip into first place for the first time since May 11.

Yet Johnson found reason for optimism in the latest loss, because his team scored two runs—the first in 35 innings.

"At least we had some people on the sacks. It was good to see them out on the bases," said Johnson, who watched three of his runners thrown out at the plate.

Meanwhile, in the National League, the next 10 days should determine which of the two winning teams in baseball—the Reds and the Dodgers—will win the Western title.

The Dodgers, leading the Reds by 2½ games, open a three-game set tonight in Cincinnati. A sweep of the weekend series could give Cincinnati the division lead for the first time since April 6 while a Los Angeles sweep would leave the Reds 5½ games back.

In the only other American League games, Minnesota dumped Kansas City 4-1, Oakland blanked Texas 3-0 and Chicago shut out California 1-0. Philadelphia shaded Chicago 6-5 in 11 innings in the only NL game.

Twins 4, Royals 1

Steve Busby's bases-loaded throwing error on a pickoff move to third base allowed two runs to score, helping the Twins over the Royals. Vic Albury had a six-hitter for Minnesota.

The loss was the Royals' eighth straight, and Busby, 19, missed his third attempt at his 20th victory. Albury, 6-8, allowed only one hit after the fourth inning.

A's 3, Rangers 0

Jim "Catfish" Hunter won his 22nd game, highest in the majors and a career high for him, as he stopped the Rangers in four singles for an As' win.

LA-Reds Clash In West

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds—the hottest two teams in baseball and in pursuit of the National League West championship—open a key three-game series at sold-out Riverfront Stadium tonight.

All 51,726 seats have been sold for each game and the Reds are now selling "standing room" tickets.

Los Angeles, leading the Reds by 2½ games, must face Don "Dodger Killer" Gullett tonight.

Gullett, a 23-year-old left-hander, has a 12-4 lifetime mark against the Dodgers, who will counter with Don Sutton.

Tonight's game is the first of six in 10 days between the two clubs. By the time the teams finish up at Los Angeles next weekend, a clear favorite for the division title should emerge.

The Reds spotted the Dodgers a hefty 10-game lead midway in the season but have been chipping away ever since.

A three game sweep here this weekend could give Cincinnati the division lead for the first time since April 6, when the season was just a couple of days old. But a Los Angeles sweep would leave the Reds 5½ games back.

"We're going to know a lot about how this is shaping up by Sunday evening," says Reds Manager Sparky Anderson, who has grown more confident as his team inched its way back the last two months. "We're going to win this thing. We have courage. My guys are never going to stop."

In his fifth season of heading Cincinnati, Anderson has now put his managerial reputation on the line. He's led the Reds to first place finishes three of the last four years but flatly says the talent he has this season is better than ever.

Walter Alston, a craftsman in his 21st straight season of managing the Dodgers, believes he has a steadier team than last year's version that gave way to the Reds in the final month.

Two off-season trades—picking up hard-working reliever Mike Marshall from Montreal and getting slugger Jimmy Wynn from Houston—already have paid huge dividends for Los Angeles.

The Dodgers, who have beaten the Reds nine of 12 times this year, bring an 85-51 record into the series—a sizzling .825 winning percentage.

The Reds are 83-54, a .606 mark that would easily put them in first place in any of the major league's three other divisions.

23-Yr. Suspended Sentence Finally Ends for Layne

NEW YORK (UPI) — When readmitted in 1954, Layne began the long, uphill struggle to win back the respect he had lost.

Layne earned his BA education, then went on to get his Master's and finally went back to the streets of New York—to help youngsters in the city's recreation programs.

Among the youths Layne guided and advised was Nate Archibald, the outstanding guard of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, who gives full credit to Layne for his success today.

Then came CCNY's August advertisement in the New York Times for a basketball coach.

"It closes the circle," Layne said Thursday, as he was introduced as the new coach. "I've dreamed and dreamed and dreamed of this day."

Then Layne and his teammates were arrested for shaving points in a gambling scandal.

Layne, who received $2,900 from gamblers, received a suspended sentence. But, as he said, "We were kids who made a mistake, and we went on to pay a heavy price for that mistake over the next 20 years."

He was also expelled by CCNY. But when he was,

Hunter now has four consecutive 20-game years. It was his fifth shutout and 18th complete game in 35 starts and boosted Oakland's lead in the AL West to 8½ games. The veteran Oakland right-hander has won 14 of his last 16 decisions and is a prime candidate for his first Cy Young Award.

White Sox 1, Angels 0

Bart Johnson and Terry Foster combined for a five-hit shutout and Ken Henderson doubled in the only run of the game in the sixth inning as the White Sox blanked the Angels.

Chicago's fourth win in a row moved the White Sox just a half game behind third place Kansas City in the AL West.

Phils 6, Cubs 5

Bob Boone's bases-loaded single with one out in the 11th inning scored Willie Montanez and Mike Anderson to give the Phils a win over the Cubs, breaking a seven-game Philadelphia losing streak in extra-inning games dating to April 14.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak for the Phils and extended the Cubs' losing streak to four games.

But

She won Italy, France and Wimbledon. Neither Billie Jean nor Evonne were in the Italian and French fields, while at Wimbledon, BJ was ambushed by Olga Morozova and Evonne lost to Miss Melville. Chris thereupon joined fiance Jimmy Connors on the champions' list by breezing past the Russian girl in the final, 6-0, 6-4.

Miss Goolagong has swept through her four opponents here, not dropping a set. She wants this title badly to offset the bitter taste of being denied entry in France and playing poorly at Wimbledon.

Yet if Evonne wants this title badly, Billie Jean is aching for it. Ms. King faces Julie Heldman in the other semi today, and she has a score to settle.

A year ago, in blazing heat, Julie pulled the book on her. On a changeover of courts, Billie could hardly get to her feet. Miss Heldman asked the umpire if her opponent was defaulting.

"If you want it that badly," Billie gasped to Julie, "you can have it."

Billie Jean has a long memory. Rooting for Chris today will be Connors, who kept their hopes for a totally unprecedented sweep of Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles alive by whipping Russia's Alex Metreveli in four sets on Thursday.

Watching will be November's other bridegroom, Stan Smith, who went out against the latest of the new brash Americans, 22-year-old Roscoe Tanner.

Resting up will be Ken Roswell, the 39-year-old master who gave a four set, how-to-series. The Australian challengers, headed by land developer Alan Bond, Wednesday questioned the design of Courageous' deck, specifically depressions used to house two winches. Under international rules, 12-meter boats may not have concave decks, but depressions used specifically for storage of single items are permitted as long as the boat's weight distribution is not altered.

The committee ruled that the winch depressions, measuring four feet by four feet, were allowed under the rule.

Both Courageous and Southern Cross spent most of Thursday testing their sails. Ted Hood, skipper of the American boat, who made most of the sails Courageous will use, said his day-long tests were successful.

Then came CCNY's August advertisement in the New York Times for a basketball coach.

Chris Has To Prove Herself

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UPI) — Chris Evert has to prove herself today in the U. S. Open Tennis Championship semifinal. Yes, she is the Wimbledon queen.

Yes, she has beaten Evonne Goolagong seven of the 11 times she has faced the graceful and exciting part-Aborigine Australian.

But, this is the fourth time, the fourth, that Chris has walked onto the court in the Forest Hills semifinals. Her three other appearances ended in defeat.

This is the fourth time she will meet Miss Goolagong on grass, and she has yet to beat Evonne on the surface, losing to her the third time in the Australian Open final in January—6-0 in the third set.

There is a world of difference in Chris' play today from the brand she displayed in 1971 when, at age 16, she built her parapet on the baseline and went to the semis to the adulation of the crowd. Playing every match in the stadium, she served virtually by a 1-2-3 count, she primly walked the tight rope, until Billie Jean King slaughtered her.

In 1972, Miss Evert was stopped cold by Australia's Kerry Melville, and last year the regal Margaret Court, with her son Danny babbling just outside the stadium, trimmed her 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

But now Chris has her whole game together. She will be seeking her 56th consecutive match victory and 11th straight tournament triumph. She no longer has a mechanical serve; her ground strokes are better than ever, and she has even been known to go to the net, an area she once shrank from approaching, fearing it might be crawling with worms.

But, she won Italy, France and Wimbledon. Neither Billie Jean nor Evonne were in the Italian and French fields, while at Wimbledon, BJ was ambushed by Olga Morozova and Evonne lost to Miss Melville. Ryan Is Faster Than Feller

With the Proof Due Saturday

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — One hot, muggy evening in the 40's, Bob Feller, or "Rapid Robert" as everybody called him then, fired a baseball through a speed testing device at 98.6 miles per hour and until now nobody ever has been clocked as fast.

That record is going down the drain at Anaheim, Calif., Saturday night.

Bob Feller says he's sure of it. He's convinced Nolan Ryan is going to better 98.6.

On the face of it, that sounds like a prediction. On closer inspection, it turns out to be something of an accusation by the former Cleveland Indians' fireballer.

This is the way the whole thing evolved:

Feller's 98.6, clocked for propelling a baseball has stood relatively unchallenged for 28 years. In his day, nobody threw any harder than he did.

Today, nobody throws harder than Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' right-handed terror who only a few nights ago became the first pitcher in modern baseball history to strike out 300 batters three straight seasons.

An idea hit George Lederer, the Angels' imaginative PR director. Why not come up with some kind of device to determine whether Ryan throws the ball harder than Feller did? Why not hold a contest and award prizes to those fans who come closest to guessing at what speed Ryan delivers?

Why not, indeed?

Accordingly, a call was made to the Rockwell International Corporation which said, yes, it could provide an infra-red radar device to gauge Ryan's actual speed.

The date was set for this Saturday night when the Angels meet the Chicago White Sox at home. Fans were invited to guess how fast Ryan would throw the ball. He'd be clocked warming up and later pitching in the ball game. The machine would time Ryan as the ball passed through an electronic "field."

There was to have been a big element of suspense attached to all this. Who's faster, Feller or Ryan? Bob Feller says there's really no suspense to Saturday night's spectacle at all.

"I understand someone in the Angels' organization already knows the outcome," Feller says, "and that they timed his (Ryan's) ball faster than mine. This company did the clocking a couple of weeks ago. Figure it out for yourself—the Angels say they don't know how this is going to come out Saturday night, but if they really didn't, if there was any doubt in their minds at all, would they bother staging a promotion just to announce Ryan wasn't clocked as fast as I was?"

There's considerable logic there, but Harry Dalton, the Angels' Executive Vice President and General Manager, insists neither he nor anyone else in the organization actually knows anything about Ryan being clocked faster than Feller.

"The Rockwell people know, but we don't," says Dalton. "They came out a couple of weeks ago when we were playing Detroit and they clocked (Mickey) Lolich in 90.1. I believe. I guess they clocked Ryan also, but they never said anything to us about it. They never gave any figures. I understand a few of the Rockwell officials are aware of Ryan's actual clocking, but they've been sworn to secrecy. I can assure you none of us with the ball club know it."

So there it stands.

If I had to guess, I'd have to say Ryan will be clocked faster than Feller. I never hit against either one, but I've seen both, and if Mickey Lolich can throw a ball at 90.1 miles per hour, then I'd have to say Nolan Ryan would be up around 100 MPH or slightly better.

Feller makes one good point. He says when he was clocked on Aug. 16, 1946 in Griffith Stadium, Washington, he had to pitch through a triangle approximately the size of home plate while Ryan will not be restricted in any such way.

Feller says he had to control and aim the ball, while Ryan will be throwing through a "free field," so to speak.

"I've often said that years ago I would've liked to have been clocked throwing the ball 'wide open' without having to control my pitches," Feller says. "I remember a Cleveland newspaper used to have one of these portable speed testing devices around the ballpark and one day a sandlotter was clocked throwing the ball 139 miles per hour.

"Rocky Colavito, who had one of the best arms I ever saw, also was up around there. Me? Somewhere around 120-130. I didn't think it was accurate. Besides, speed alone doesn't make a pitcher."

In Feller's opinion, Sandy Koufax had the best live fast ball he ever saw.

He doesn't come right out and say so, but you can sense Feller feels he threw a baseball as fast as anybody, if not faster. In his heart, I'm sure, he feels he threw harder than Ryan.

There is, according to Feller, one way he knows of to settle the question whether he was faster than Ryan.

"Go to the players, managers and coaches around today who nit against me," he says. "Ask them who was the fastest."

The players? How can they judge? None of them around today ever hit against Feller.

Egad, Friends!

Hoople Is Back

Football's Foremost Forecaster

EGAD, friends, seems like 't was only yesterday when the curtain came down on last year's college and high school football battles and here we are at the start of another season.

Nope, high schoolers aren't quite ready yet, but that's fine with us. Koff-kaff, because initial data on area gridiron squads is just now beginning to reach our computers. But the colleges are ready and so are we, so while we eagerly anticipate the Sept. 21 scholastic debuts, let's concentrate for now on the big boys, heh-heh.

So to battle right at the start are such piskin stalwarts as Arizona State and Houston, Syracuse and Oregon State, Tennessee and UCLA, Mississippi and Tulane, and Notre Dame and Georgia Tech.

The big contest on opening day matches Tennessee and UCLA before 70,000 spectators at Neyland Stadium and millions of fans on the TV tube. In a contest that has to be rated this season's opener by a 47-14 even, the Hoople nod goes to count — um-kumph!

Kickers On Road

KINGSTON
The Kingston Sport Club Kickers who launch a new soccer season Sunday at Yonkers have a brand new look in several departments.

First there's a new coach—Robert (Bob) Davis, Kingston-born and Kingston-trained. Ditto for the goalie and team publicist—Joel Thompson. And most of the players on the 18-member squad are from the area, many of them Kingston High School and UCCU graduates.

At Yonkers, the Kickers face the Schwaben, one of the six teams in the League Division (lowest echelon of GASA) along with Poughkeepsie, American Czechs, Stamford, Conn. and new Brooklyn entry known as The Danish. Could it be the Danes?

Something else is new—the home field. After several years in the sylvan setting of Oehler's Soccer Field in Morgan Hill, the Kickers transfer their homes to St. Mary's field, at the corner of Foxhall and Flatbush Avenue in Kingston.

Davis, who will be player-manager, will be assisted in the coaching and managing chores by Jack Henderson and Tomson, who is also the team publicist.

Other members of the squad include Hernando Ronconico, Richie Bush, Philip Rutherford, John Ivankovic, Fred Seeger, Steve Lippincott, Don Badgley, Mark Herb, Stephen Davis, Fred Robinson and John Robinson.

Jim Reinhardt, one of the Kickers stars during their heyday and still a formidable competitor, rounds out the squad. Several of the players have had college experience and others kept in top condition by performing in the Hudson Valley League this summer.

"We've achieved our long range goal of fielding an almost all-local team," said Tomson. "We think the new players and the new field in Kingston will boost interest in the team."

The Monday Night TV Spectacular, Notre Dame will open defense of its national championship in Atlanta against Georgia Tech.

A word to the wise for Ara Parseghian and the Irish lads: BEWARE. Pepper Rodgers, a '55 graduate, is returning to the Alma Mater as only the sixth coach in the Ramblin' Wreck's 70-year football history. And Rodgers is determined to make his return a big one.

Alas, his task appears too much this time as Notre Dame, despite losing six top performers for disciplinary reasons, is loaded with veterans. Let's call it Notre Dame 37, Georgia Tech 18.

In addition to the usual shooting events, this year's program will feature two new events—the Wawarsing version of the Mexican Silhouette Shoot and Black powder shootoff. All Dart rapped a single, double, triple and Bill Rodden had three singles. Saulpaugh knocked in three runs.

Hurley GOP Selects Pair

HURLEY Town of Hurley Republicans selected Philip Sinagra and Robert Jennings as their choice of candidates for town councilmen at a recent caucus held at St. Joseph's Mission Hall.

In the three-way race for the nomination, Sinagra of Hurley received 165 votes; Jennings of West Hurley, received 90 votes and Joyce Lickers of West Hurley polled 79 votes.

Voting machines were used for the unusually large turnout, according to Clarence Anderson, chairman of the Town of Hurley Republican Committee.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TOO MUCH: (Q.) Every time Chris catches herself getting serious with me she stops seeing me. She gives different reasons for breaking up. The last time she said we fight too much.

I am in love with her very much and I can sense that it hurts her to break up with me. And even when we are broken up she acts jealous if she sees me with somebody else. What can I do? I am 19 and she is 16.—In Love in Louisiana.

(A.) You may not be asking Chris for sex or marriage, but you ARE asking her for more than she is old enough emotionally or physically to give you at 16. Take it easy. Don't push her, let her set the pace. Do not hide the fact that you love her, but do not demand anything from her, including love.

In two or three years, if you are willing to wait, she should know herself better, and can make up her mind that you are or aren't the one.

CHASED: (Q.) These two girls really like me, but I don't like them. They are just 12 and I am 14. Every time I go outside they chase me around the block. What should I do? I don't like being chased, even if I can outrun them. Because I am a boy.—Enough in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Boys often are troubled with chasing girls, but you are the first to write about being chased on foot. Reason with these 12-year-olds. Tell them they are wasting their time and energy on you. Tell them you don't give a darn about them. That is, if that is really the truth. Personally, I wonder.

South started to make the automatic play of dummy's queen of spades at trick one. Then he stopped, saw that he just might need an extra entry to dummy and won in his own hand.

It was well that he did. As it was, dummy's entries lasted just long enough to bring the slam home.

South drew trumps with three leads and continued with the ace and five of clubs. Dummy's queen lost to East's king and a spade came back.

The trick was won by the queen which South had been careful to keep in dummy. Now he ruffed a third club; entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and ruffed the fourth club to set up the last club as a winner. He discarded dum-mys' three of diamonds on the last spade; ruffed a diamond with dummy's last trump; discarded his last diamond on the last club and was home with the bacon.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

One of the most heroic acts of World War II occurred on Feb. 3, 1943 when the U.S. transport Dorchester was torpedoed. The World Almanac recalls that four chaplains gave their lifebelts to soldiers aboard the ship, linked their arms and prayed as they went down with the vessel. The chaplains were of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths.

PREMIER CHOU EN-LAI

Chou En-Lai's Condition 'Serious'

By United Press International

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said in Peking today the condition of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has worsened during three months of hospitalization for a heart ailment.

"But I don't think you ought to read into that report anything such as that his condition is critical," Humphrey said in a telephone interview with United Press International.

Humphrey, a member of a congressional delegation on a 10-day tour of China, said Vice Premier Teng Hsiao Ping told the group of the condition of Chou, 76, a prime architect of U.S.-China detente.

"If he were not ill, the premier would be happy to see you," Humphrey quoted Teng as saying. "But he is not well and is more ill now than at the time of Sen. (Henry) Jackson's visit two months ago."

Humphrey said the Chinese official "mentioned that Jackson (D-Wash.) visited Chou in the hospital but that is not possible now because his (Chou's) condition has slightly worsened."

In an earlier interview with the Mutual Broadcasting network, Humphrey said, "The apparent candor with which the vice premier spoke indicates he (Chou) is quite ill."

Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., another delegation member, said two Communist party officials were summoned from a Thursday night banquet.

China watchers said it was believed to be the first time Chou skipped such a meeting. Chou began his withdrawal from frontline political and administrative duties last April. He was hospitalized in June with a reported heart ailment, but has received guests and left the hospital to make public appearances. In his last trip from the hospital, he attended an Army Day reception July 31.

Chou was one of the major builders of Communist China. He took over as premier after the Communist takeover in 1949, assuming the job of turning Chairman Mao's revolutionary ideas into reality.

Chou, unlike many of his

Communist colleagues, was reared to be a diplomat and always has had a reputation for knowing how to deal with foreigners.

U.S. officials, including the late Gen. George C. Marshall, were impressed by him when he headed the Communist mission in abortive talks with the Nationalist Chinese at the end of World War II.

A soft-spoken, dignified man, Chou projected the image of the Chinese saying: "wai joi, nei kang" — "outwardly gentle, but tough as steel inside."

President 'Touching All the Bases'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has been trying to touch base with all segments of America to launch his new administration. Today it was women's and business groups and a side trip to Philadelphia.

He scheduled a meeting today with Walter Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Britain who long has wanted to leave his post at the Court of St. James.

Annenberg was persuaded by former President Nixon to stay on for a time.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, prominently has been mentioned as Annenberg's successor.

Fulbright said a telephone interview from Peking, China, where he heads a touring U.S. congressional delegation, that he has not applied for the job. Ford arranged to attend the funeral of Gen. Creighton Abrams in the memorial chapel at nearby Fort Meyer in the morning. The Army chief of staff died Wednesday of complications following a bout with cancer.

Ford will dramatize the problems of women by meeting with the leaders of some of the most militant groups — such as the National Organization for Women and the Women's Political Caucus — as well as the League of Women Voters and the Federation of Business and Professional Women.

He also will confer with Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller at the White House, probably to discuss Rockefeller's future role in the administration and to map out strategy for speedy confirmation of his nomination.

Ford also called a National Security Council meeting and planned to confer with business leaders representing the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce.

He also slated a trip to Philadelphia to address a dinner commemorating the 200th anniversary of the First Continental Congress.

Ford still was still reshaping the White House staff. He had on his desk a long list of possible candidates for Cabinet and other top jobs he hoped to fill over the next few months as the Nixon holdovers depart.

After first asking Nixon staffers to remain on during the transition, Ford seemed now bent on cleaning house to bring in his own choices.

Among those expected to be tapped for perhaps a Cabinet job are NATO Ambassador Donald Rusk, who was coordinator for Ford's transition team.

He was back from Brussels apparently to discuss possible openings with the President.

Greek, Turkish Leaders in Peace Talks

By United Press International

Warring Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders gathered in Nicosia today for peace talks delayed by atrocity charges and truce violations. Rifle and mortar fire rocked the capital hours before the start of the session.

A U.N. spokesman said President Glafkos Clerides and Vice President Rauf Denktaş planned to meet this afternoon to discuss a prisoner exchange and problems of an estimated 200,000 refugees on the island. The spokesman reported two hours of heavy mortar and rifle fire Thursday night between Greek Cypriot and Turkish soldiers along the "green line" separating the two communities in the capital.

There were no reports of casualties and the spokesman reported both sides observing "a complete cease-fire" this morning.

The truce talks were scheduled to begin last Monday, but the session a Greek Cypriot village. The Greek Turks claimed Greek Cypriot National Guardsmen broke the truce first.

village of Maratha on the island's east coast. The Clerides government in turn accused the Turkish invasion force Thursday of "cold blood" murder of "at least 130 Greeks," including "children, women and men up to the age of 90."

On Wednesday, Turkish forces pushed their boundaries another four miles west past the town of Lefka, overrunning a Greek Cypriot village. The Greek Turks claimed Greek Cypriot National Guardsmen broke the truce first.

At the United Nations, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said Thursday the war left 225,600 refugees on the embattled island.

In Paris, Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros met Thursday with French diplomats. He planned to meet today with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to get the support of France in the Cyprus crisis.

A Turkish Cypriot spokesman in Nicosia said he had a report of more than 50 civilians massacred at Timi, a village of Greek Cypriot National Guard Turks on the southwest edge of the island.

"We believe the report is true, but we still haven't received enough details to justify a complaint to the United Nations," he said.

Turkish Cypriots said 149 bodies have been found in mass graves at the villages of Aloa and Maratha along the east coast. U.N. officials said 84 bodies were found at Maratha, but could not confirm the Aloa figure.

Turkish Cypriots reported 49 men shot and killed at the southern town of Dohni, but refused to let the U.N. officials inspect the area.

'Spirit of '76 Debate'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Delegates opened the reconvening of the First Continental Congress Thursday with a spirited debate reminiscent of one the founding fathers might have had 200 years ago in laying the groundwork for a new nation.

The friendly disagreement on the first day of the two-day historical commemoration concerned the language used in a "right of privacy" resolution introduced by Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, host of the Congress.

Governors and other delegates from the 13 original colonies debated the resolution urging a constitutional amendment "to guarantee forever that the people have the right to personal privacy and freedom from undue government interference."

The delegates, including New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson, met in historic Carpenter's Hall, where representatives from the 13 colonies gathered in 1774. The commemorative congress, which kicks off the bicentennial celebration, will close tonight following an open-air address by President Ford.
